An exhibition as rare as it is beautiful, as novel, moral and unique as it is intensely interesting, comprising the great fire scene where the fearless horse, "Bonita," rescues his mistress from a burning building. Startling battle scene! Horses at war! Charge of the artillery! The beautiful dancing horse, Gen. Sherman. Horse college, mule monitor, horse teacher, clown ponies, clown donkeys, champion skaters, elegant singers. Horse opera! Horse comedy! Horse drama! Troupe of performing dogs. Equines assisted by canines. An entertainment indescribably wonderful and novel; has proved the greatest success that ever visited the Eastern cities.

POPULAR PRICES, 25c and 50c.

From M. S. Rowell et al., to cover gutter on First street.

From Niles Pease et al., for a crossing between First and Second streets.

Petaluma asked the Council to petition the Legislature to repeal the Vrooman Act.

From Mrs. E. Roach, to have hydrant removed from in front of her residence on Fifth and Spring streets.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Recommended that the City Surveyor propose plans for a brick covered conduit on Zanja No. 5, from First to Seventh streets. So ordered.

Recommended that the petition of the City Railroad Company for change in the charter to allow the substitution of a double cable line for the present track be granted. Referred back to Board of Public Works.

Asked further time on the petition of the Los Angeles Railway Company for a six months' extension. Granted.

Recommended that the petition of H. J. Crow for a street railway franchise be granted and the ordinance submitted adopted. Adopted.

That the petition of Julia A. Bundy to have block owners defined be referred to the City Surveyor. So ordered.

That the petition of W. H. Perry be granted, provide he grade entire block. So ordered.

That the petition be granted to grade part of Guadalupe street, if the entire block be graded. So ordered.

That the petition to grade part of Flower street be granted, if the entire block be graded. So ordered.

Presented resolutions establishing grade of Lomitas street. Accepted.

Recommended acceptance of grade on Beaudry avenue, between Temple street and Bellevue avenue and Ninth street, between Pearl and Hope street. So ordered.

FIRE COMMISSIONERS.

Recommended that an ordinance forbidding obstructions of fire hydrants be adopted. Also an ordinance regulating the erection of buildings in the city limits. Adopted and referred to City Attorney.

Reported the expenditures of $3631.50 during the month of December. Referred to Finance Committee.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

The Committee on Bridges recommended that the Clerk advertise for bids for the Daly-street bridge. So ordered.

That the Clerk advertise for bids on the Kuhrts-street bridge. So ordered.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

The committee to which was referred the message of Mayor Spence and Mayor Workman recommended as follows:

On Mayor Spence's message: That the City Assessor make the next assessment in accordance with the recommendation of Mr. Spence.

That the portion of the message relating to establishing street grades be referred to the Board of Public Works.

That the part relating to a granite wall at the reservoir be referred to the Committee on Water Supply for immediate action.

That the part relating to the extension of the Main-street sewer be referred to the Committee on Sewers.

The following matters in Mayor Workman's message were ordered referred as follows:

Levee, to the City Surveyor.
Opening of streets, to the City Attorney.
Parks, to Park Committee.
City Hall, to Building Committee.
Public schools, to the Board of Education.

Regarding police force the committee earnestly recommend that the Police Commissioners carry out the recommendations of the Mayor.

Hitching of horses, to the Chief of Police, with instructions to strictly enforce the ordinance.

Sewers, to Sewer Committee.
Water, to Water Committee.
Reports adopted as read:

COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

Reported that they have examined reports of sundry city officers and recommended that they be filed. So ordered.

That the city rent from Mrs. James Gorman the Park Hose building at $40 per month for another year, an increase of $10 per month. Amended to two years and so ordered.

That the City Treasurer be allowed $25 per month for office rent and that the $50 per month heretofore allowed for clerk hire be disallowed and discontinued. So ordered.

That the petition of the Temple-street Cable Railway for rebate on amount paid as license be denied. So ordered.

That the bill of the Los Angeles Printing Company to print 500 copies of the Municipal Reports at $3.12½ a page be accepted. On motion of Councilman Kuhrts, rejected and clerk ordered to advertise for fresh bids.

That the City Clerk procure a new seal. So ordered.

That the City Zanjero be instructed to cut off pipe connections of all persons in arrears for water. So ordered.

That should citizens establish a Bureau of Information, the Council make a reasonable monthly appropriation in aid of the same. So ordered.

COMMITTEE ON PARKS

reported that the land desired to be purchased by P. Beaudry is a part of Elysian Park, and cannot be sold. Adopted.

COMMITTEE ON GAS

recommended that the protest of the Electric Light Company be referred to the City Attorney. So ordered.

That the petitions of E. K. Green and Hall, Stetson & Co. be filed.

That the petition of Mosher, Quigley et al. to locate gas works on San Pedro street be denied. So ordered.

COMMITTEE ON ZANJAS

recommended that the petition of Hoff et al. be referred to the City Zanjero. So ordered.

Asked for further time on the petition of Paul Wack. So ordered.

That the bids of E. Frick and W. Lacy, Jr., be accepted. So ordered.

That William Bryant be allowed to connect with 9 E by a one-inch pipe at $1 per month. So ordered.

SCALE BUGS.

The President announced the following committee on scale bugs: Messrs. Hyans, Stearns and Jones.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS

recommended that the police force be increased from 33 to 40 men. So ordered.

CATCH BASINS.

Bid from John McQuilkin, to build two catch basins at $80 each, was referred to Board of Public Works.

FIRE ENGINE.

Communication from Amoskeag Fire Engine Company, handing contract for second Amoskeag engine, and asking what name was desired on the engine; also, to have date of delivery changed from March 1st to "about March 1st." Referred to Board of Fire Commissioners and City Attorney.

SAN PEDRO STREET.

Report of Commissioners on the opening of this street, with decision of Superior Court, referred to the City Attorney.

BUENA VISTA-STREET BRIDGE.

Report of Collector showed over $5000 collected. Payments were still due from the Southern Pacific Company, the San Gabriel Valley Railroad Company and William Lacy. Referred to the Bridge Committee and City Attorney.

GAS.

The ordinance granting franchise to Chalmers Scott et al. to lay gas-pipes was taken up and referred again to the Board of Public Works, who had failed to report on it.

PLAZA.

Moved by Mr. Stearns that bids be ordered advertised for a cement or asphaltum sidewalk on outside path of Plaza Park. Carried.

LOS ANGELES STREET.

The President called the attention of the Council to the importance of attending to the opening of Los Angeles street. It seemed that the late City Attorney had made some error in the ordinance.

By request City Attorney Daly explained that the court had granted an extension for republishing until January 17th. The publication was made in the official paper on December 24th, but for some reason was omitted on the 31st, which makes the publication invalid. His predecessor also informed him that there was some error in the survey. The action would have to fall and be commenced anew.

Mr. Kuhrts moved that the City Attorney be instructed to commence proper proceedings for the widening of Los Angeles street. Carried.

Mr. Frankenfield said some one should pay for this blunder. He moved that the City Attorney be instructed to keep a strict account of the expense incurred from this time on by the failure of the last action.

The Council then adjourned.

"MOVE ON."

A Policeman Who Makes Even Councilmen Mind the Rules.

Councilman "Jake" Kuhrts yesterday brought charges against Officer Little before the Police Commissioners. There has been great complaint about the abominable fashion in which the sidewalks—especially at street corners—are blocked up by loafers and by thoughtless citizens; and the police have been ordered to enforce the ordinances and abate this nuisance. Little has been carrying out these orders diligently, and has cleared out more than one animate obstruction to travel. Finally he ran across a crowd which was blocking the sidewalk at the corner of Main and First and ordered them to move on. He didn't know who they were, but supposed they were amenable to the law. One of them, who was Mr. Kuhrts, said: "This sidewalk belongs to me. I won't move on." Little took him by the councilmanic arm and moved him on. Another of the party bristled up pugnaciously, and Little shoved him aside with the easy grace with which he might evict a fly from his nose.

Kuhrts appeared before the Commissioners and preferred his charges. He got very hot in the recital of his wrongs, while Little, who was also summoned before the Board, kept cool as a cucumber. The Commissioners have not yet ruled upon the onerous matter.

PATTI.

She Will Sing Here on the 20th Instead of the 18th.

Patti is making such a tremendous hit in the City of Mexico that her engagement here has been deferred for two nights. She will appear here on the 20th (Thursday of next week), instead of the 18th. Mr. Gillette, the agent, goes north this noon, but has made arrangements to have the sale of tickets continue at Bartlett's music store, First street. The sales thus far have reached $6200, of which $218 is accredited to San Diego, where seats were sold by chart. The following telegrams are self-explanatory:

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10, 2 p.m.

E. F. Gillette, Agent Patti Concert Company: Company will not leave Mexico till Friday, and probably not till Monday 17th. Last night's house in Mexico, $15,000. Enormous success. MARCUS R. MAYER.

A later dispatch to Mr. Gillette says: "Announce Patti positively for Thursday, UNITARIANISM.

REV. ELI FAY, D.D., SHOWS THE BASIS OF THAT FAITH,

And Fortifies His Position with Numerous Scripture Texts—An Able Discourse Upon the Unity of God.

Rev. Eli Fay, D.D., pastor of the rapidly growing Church of the Unity, having been attacked from one of the city pulpits on account of his beliefs, preached at the Grand Opera House Sunday the following sermon in defense of his faith:

Mark 12th, 29th. Jesus answered him saying: The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God is one Lord.

Gal. 3, 20. God is one.

1 Cor. 8, 5. For though there be, that are called gods, whether in heaven or on earth, as there be lords many and gods many; yet to us there is but one God the Father.

John 17, 3. In prayer to His Father Christ said: This is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent.

The being of God is a transcendent theme. Let us approach it with the reverence and awe that it should excite in us. Can we divest our minds of all prejudice and prepossessions, and look at it rationally and according to the self-evident laws of thought? We do not pretend that our conceptions of God, Christ, religion, life, death or immortality are like those of our orthodox neighbors; on the contrary, we distinctly proclaim that they are not. If, throughout the civilized world, there is one fact that by the more intelligent is personally and absolutely known to be a fact, it is that the old orthodox creeds are honeycombed through and through, and that by vast numbers of the more thoughtful and the more truly religious, those creeds are felt to be a burden that can no longer be carried; and for the reason, that as by general consent our moral, spiritual and rational nature is the gift of God and a transcript of his nature, therefore a creed, a system of religious doctrines that shocks and repels our finest sensibilities, that outrages our sense of justice, or that is utterly repugnant to our rational powers—the only faculties by which we apprehend truth or distinguish error, cannot be a revelation from heaven or a compendium of the truth of God. It cannot be. Reason is not competent to the discovery of all religious truth; at the same time no truth can be repugnant to the essential laws of thought, or is clearly and self-evidently unthinkable. This is axiomatic. Now apply this principle to a doctrine widely held to be the chief corner-stone of the Christian religion, indeed its acceptance to be the condition of salvation, viz: the doctrine of the Trinity. Is it even thinkable? Can it be so stated as not to shock and repel the very faculties by which we distinguish between truth and error—so stated as not to involve a clear point blank, downright absurdity and contradiction of terms. You shall be the judges. Listen! In the one being, who is God, because He possesses all of the attributes of God, there are three persons, each of whom is God, because He possesses all the attributes of God. No Trinitarian can say that this is not a fair statement of the doctrine. Over and over and over again, in sermon, prayer, hymn, doxology and benediction we have heard that the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost are each truly and properly and absolutely God, and yet that there is but one God. But in loyalty to the rules of thought the proposition cannot even be entertained. It is obviously and directly self-contradictin t cannot be conceived of. It states what we absolutely know cannot be true. It declares that the first person is God, because in and of himself he possesses all the attributes of God; that the same is true of the second person and also of the third; that each is God intrinsically and to all intents and purposes, and yet that there is but one God. But I do not know that my right hand is not my left hand, that midday is not midnight, that a fraction is not a whole number, with a knowledge clearer or more undoubted than that wherewith I know that this proposition cannot possibly be true. Three persons, each of whom is God, because he possesses all the attributes of God, are three Gods, according to our intuitive perception of things, precisely as three persons, each of whom is a man, because he possesses all the attributes of a man, are three men. Is not one proposition as clear as the other? Do they not involve the same mathematical principle? What would be thought of a witness who in court should swear that he knows three persons, Smith, Jones and Brown, each of whom is a man because he possesses all the attributes of a man, and yet that the three constitute but one man? Beyond a question a charge of insanity might be based on such an oath, it would so clearly evince mental aberration. But pray tell me, in the first instance, what makes the proposition entirely believable? So plain that all ought without qualification to accept it, and in the second instance exactly identical in principle and even in its characteristic terms, yet so repugnant to our intuitive apprehension of truth that to affirm it under oath would justly subject one to a charge of idiocy or insanity.

Once more. According to this doctrine of the Trinity, there is one God, the Father, and one Jesus Christ, His Son, and yet the Father and the Son are one and the same being. Did you not know that this is true? I should expect you to say at once that I must be mistaken; that, in his senses, no man could for a moment entertain the idea that a father and his son could be identical. But I state to you the exact truth when I say that this doctrine holds it as one of its cardinal propositions that God, the Father, and Christ, His Son, are one and the same being. Hundreds of volumes have been written and thousands of sermons preached to prove it. The charge against us is that we do not believe Jesus Christ to be the very God whose Son He was and is. I declare my utter amazement. I can give no explanation of the astounding fact. In the name of religion and as the means of saving my soul, I am asked to stultify my rational nature, so to contemn and outrage the only faculties by which I am even capable of distinguishing between truth and falsehood, as to say I firmly and sincerely believe that a being may be his own father and his own son. But if everlasting perdition depended upon my acceptance of the doctrine, in loyalty to my rational nature, I should be obliged to say I did not believe it. But suppose the principle involved in this proposition were affirmed under oath. Suppose a man were to swear that he knows personally and intimately John Smith, a father, and Thomas Smith, his son, and that John Smith, the father, and Thomas Smith, his son, are one and the same man. Is there a judge in the civilized world who would give to such evidence a single moment's consideration—who would not hold such a witness to be an idiot, a lunatic or a perjurer? But, pray, how can the statement in regard to two human persons be too absurd for a moment's thought and precisely the same statement in regard to two divine persons be entirely rational and credible. We do absolutely know that it cannot be true. It is as clearly, as positively unbelievable in the one case as the other.

It is an essential part of the doctrine of the Trinity that the omnipotent, omniscient and omnipresent God, the creator and upholder of all things, He whose creative wisdom, directing power and personal presence in each of the innumerable worlds throughout this boundless sea of space—in that burning sun whose light, traveling at the rate of nearly 200,000 miles per second, has not yet reached our world, are as necessary as they are here, He whose center is everywhere and whose circumference is nowhere, who, as the Apostle says, is above all, and through all and in all, withdrew from all of the other portions of His universe and so concentrated Himself, so focalized His being, so divested Himself of the very attributes of His nature, the essential elements of His Godhead, as on this mote in the air to be born a human child, through the usual process of growth to become a man, to be baptized, think of it (according to this doctrine John the Baptist baptized the infinite and illimitable God), to be insulted as a religious innovator and finally crucified. Ten thousand thousand thousand times it has been declared that Christ was truly and properly God, that in the form of a man the infinite Jehovah sojourned on the earth, and yet by general consent He was crucified and laid in the tomb; and this to recover as much as much as possible from the frightful, the overwhelming disaster occasioned by His own circumvention by the devil—a being whom He Himself created. Now if this whole general scheme is not a downright, out and out absurdity, will any man tell me what an absurdity is? Will one of you undertake to coin a preposterous idea? By what rules shall we distinguish between a self-evident untruth and a self-evident truth. If this system of religious thought has in it a single obvious and intrinsic element of probability I should be delighted to have an eminent jurist—a man accustomed to consider the meaning of words, the construction of sentences, the rules of evidence and their bearing upon cases in hand—point it out.

But it is said that this doctrine is revealed as the truth of God, and consequently that it must be accepted; and our reply is that a self-evident absurdity, a proposition, the terms of which are undeniably self-contradictory, cannot be a statement of the truth of God. There are many matters, the most solemn affirmation of which, instead of substantiating them, breaks down the witnesses. Suppose a million men were to aver and to bring any number of printed books to corroborate their declaration, that up in the Rocky Mountains there is a deep, dark ravine where the multiplication table will not work; that there its principles are totally reversed; that two and two are sometimes three and sometimes five; and children are frequently older than their parents; where a yardstick is five feet long and has only one end; where a fraction is greater than a whole number; where a cube and a globe are the same in form; where a straight line is not the shortest distance between two points. What should we say? Without a moment's hesitation we should say that such averments were very bad for the men, and that all concurrent printed testimony would only demonstrate its own utter untrustworthiness, as the points named could not be substantiated by any amount of evidence indeed, that on their face they bear the unfallible proof that they are not true, cannot be true. And yet not one of these propositions is obviously and intrinsically more absurd, more unsusceptible of proof, more repugnant to the very laws of thought, more unbelievable than is the doctrine that there are three persons, the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, each of whom is the very and eternal God. And yet that there is but one God, that God the Father and Christ His Son are one and the same being, or that the omnipresent One the life of all life, the source of all power, the Father of all spirits, the upholder of all things, completely divested Himself of his Godhead and became a helpless infant, the child of a woman whom he created. If these are not downright absurdities, what constitutes an absurdity?

We, therefore, unhesitatingly and unqualifiedly reject this entire system of religious doctrine as bearing on its face the evidence of its own falsity. Any well-formed human mind acting spontaneously must feel it to be untrue. We also reject it because its origin, and the time when, and the manner in which it became a doctrine of the church are as distinctly and explicitly a matter of history as the reign of the Cæsars, or the career of William the Conqueror. There is overwhelming evidence that this doctrine constituted no part of the doctrine of the early church, that Christ and the disciples never mentioned it, or dreamed of it, but that long after the crucifixion it was imported into the church by converts from heathenism, who brought with them much of their mythology, their senseless philosophy and their superstition.

1. Mosheim, one of the most trustworthy of all the sacred historians, says: "Four kinds of trinity were pressed upon the attention of the early church. Nearly all of these corruptions," continues Mosheim, "By which in the second and subsequent centuries Christianity was disfigured, and its pristine simplicity almost wholly effaced, had their origin in Egypt (the land of superstition, idolatry and silly dreams), and were thence communicated to the other churches." Mosheim also speaks at length of "this absurd act of preverting and straining the Scriptures," and of the great "evil" that was wrought in the early church by expounding Christian tenets according to the principles of the heathen philosophers above named. Norton, whom a more candid scholar or historian than never wrote, says of the doctrine of the Trinity: "We can trace the history of this doctrine and discover its source, not in the Christian revelation, but in the Platonic philosophy." Plato, one of the great idealists of the world, having flourished in Greece 400 before Christ. Forrest, in his history of the Trinity, says: "They" (referring to acknowledged Trinitarian authorities) "give to Trinitarianism a very high heathen origin." "I dislike," said Calvin, "this vulgar prayer—Holy Trinity, one God, have mercy on us—as altogether savoring of barbarism. We repudiate such expressions as being not only insipid, but profane." This is the language of John Calvin. Priestley and Lindsey, indefatigable and conscientious students of the history of the early church, say that in the writings of the Fathers, prior to Justin Martyr in the year 140, they were unable to find the slightest reference to the preëxistence or Godhead of Christ.

2. All who are familiar with the Apostles' creed know that from beginning to end, and in every sentence and syllable, it is a Unitarian document. In it there is not the slightest reference to the Trinity in any one of its phases. And yet Mosheim says that in the early period of the church "public teachers inoculated no other doctrines than those contained in it." This is unimpeachable testimony as to the theology of the early church. But, once more, many of you must be aware that a very ancient document, entitled "The Teachings of the Apostles" has recently been discovered. As no names are appended to it, we cannot be quite sure that the Apostles wrote it. Nevertheless, it is evidently very ancient, and it is admitted to be very significant. And from that we learn that not a single feature of the Trinitarian scheme was included in the teachings of the Apostles. On the contrary, they preached clearly, explicitly and unmistakably that which is now known as liberal Christianity—no Triune God, vicarious atonement or burning hell being so much as hinted at.

3. About the middle of the second century after Christ, Justin Martyr began to speculate in regard to the nature or preëxistence of Christ; but from the beginning he encountered fierce opposition. We could quote verbatim, did time permit, numbers of eminent and learned men, the fathers of the church, who, from intense conviction, opposed the introduction into the church of the doctrine of Christ's preëxistence. As yet the doctrine of His Godhead had not even been mooted. But the agitation, once begun, went on, and ultimately the place of Christ in the scale of being became a political question, as temperance or tariff is among us. Rulers and judges were appointed now to oppose and now to favor it. Long afterward the personality of the Holy Spirit became a speculation. But in that age all ideas developed slowly, and not till 195 years after Justin Martyr's day and 325 years after the birth of Christ, and as the result of just such scheming, bribery and corruption through a protracted series of councils as attend our political conventions, it was decided by a vote that the doctrine of the Trinity should thenceforth be the doctrine of the church. And subsequently many of the members of the council at which the final vote was passed (and earlier in the history of the church it could not have been passed), declared that they voted from compulsion and against their convictions. As it is, therefore, in overwhelming evidence that the doctrine of the Christian Trinity—so called, was utterly unknown to Christ, the Apostles and the early church, that it was long afterward imported into the church as a mere speculation of heathen philosophy, we utterly repudiate it as constituting no part of Christian truth.

But this will appear still more apparent, if possible, as we pass on to consider finally.

That this doctrine is not only unknown, too, but utterly irreconcilable with both the letter and spirit of the Bible. That in the Old Testament there is not a word concerning it, is sufficiently indicated by the fact that the Jews to whom was originally given our Old Testament, and who, for thousands of years, have sacredly held it as their Bible, utterly reject the doctrine, and declare, as with one voice, that the Talmud contains not the remotest hint concerning it. On the face of the earth there is not a Trinitarian Jew. And how shall we Unitarians suitably express our high appreciation of the fact, that peeled, torn, most unjustly persecuted by nominal Christians, and despite their national disruption and general and wicked ostracism the Jews have everywhere and always stood for the rational, grand, uplifting, inspiring doctrine of Moses and the prophets—the simple unity of God. That ought to settle the question, so far as the Old Testament is concerned. But what of the New. Listen to Augustus Neander, who is probably the highest authority that could be named in connection with the Christian church. He says: "The doctrine (of the Trinity) does not strictly belong to the fundamental articles of the Christian faith, as appears sufficiently evident from the fact that it is expressly held forth in no one particular passage of the New Testament." And Cardinal Hoeful, in his "Confession of Catholicism," chapter 27, says: "We believe in the Triune God, because we have received by tradition, though it is not mentioned in the Scriptures at all, considering the popular emphasis laid upon this doctrine as the chief corner-stone of Christianity." These are wonderful acknowledgments. And yet they should surprise no one, as there are some things which common people know quite as well as chistorians, cardinals or bishops. We know that in the Bible there is not a single passage in which the doctrine of the Trinity is stated. There is not a passage in which the Trinitarian idea is or can be expressed. The language necessary to the statement of the Trinity is not there. Triune, Triad, Trinity, three persons in one God, one God in three persons. First person, second person, third person—God the Son, God the Holy Ghost. Of all this and much more of the same sort there is not a syllable between the lids of the Bible. On the contrary, think of my texts, and in respect to their general character they could be multiplied a hundredfold. God is one, not three—ONE, NOT THREE—one mind, one will, one power, one Being—the sole and sovereign and glorious God. When Jesus was asked which was the first commandment of all, He answered in the exact language of Moses. The first of all the commandments is Hear, O Israel! the Lord our God is NOT the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, each of whom is truly and properly God—not a hint of it, not a shadow of it, but Jesus, who in our day is declared to be one of the persons in the Trinity, quoted Moses, and, of course, indorsed his doctrine, saying the Lord our God. Think of this as coming from Christ. The Lord our God is one Lord. But as if to sweep the whole horizon of truth, touching this subject, there is Christ on His knees in prayer. In the name of common sense, will any man tell us what occasion Christ had to pray if at that moment He was the very and eternal God; and to whom did He pray? But there He is on His knees. Listen. This is life eternal that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom Thou hast sent.

And this is but the concurrent testimony of Scripture. With equal relevancy to the point under consideration, I could quote chapter and verse till my strength and your patience were exhausted. But pray consider the unanswerable evidence of a fact that a child in our grammar school would feel bound to respect. If there are three persons, each of whom has all the attributes of being, mind, will, self-consciousness and self-command, then is it entirely clear, it is perfectly self-evident that singular nouns and pronouns would be wholly inapplicable as expressions of their aggregate personality. Only plural nouns and pronouns would be appropriate. In our city there is many a scholar twelve years old who would feel the force of this fact. And yet from Genesis to Revelation the Bible is construed on the hypothesis that in the very essence of His being, the essentials of His personality, God exists in the singular number. Could argument be stronger? Upward of six thousand singular nouns and pronouns assume the personal oneness of God. I, my, me; not we, ours and us. He, his, him; not they, theirs and them, and the force of this fact is obvious and irresistible. It alone ought to settle the question, and yet it is but one of the links of our chain.

Once more. Two hundred and thirty-two times in the New Testament the relation between God and Christ is spoken of as that between a father and his son. Could the distinct individuality, the complete personality, the entire self-consciousness of each be more clearly intimated than it is in this numerous class of passages with which the youngest class in our Sunday schools are entirely familiar? And, therefore, when with all seriousness a person proposes to convince us that a father and his son may be one and the same being we have only to say that life is too short and common sense too sacred a gift to be thus trifled with. And yet strange to say frequently that proposal is distinctly made, and we are regarded as heretics because we cannot listen to it.

Now would it not be strange, very, very strange, if it should turn out that the doctrine of the Trinity, utterly repugnant to every principle of human reason, which the Jews declare to be entirely foreign to the Old Testament, which Christ and the Apostles never mentioned, which is not so much as named in the Bible and cannot even be expressed in Bible language, which, till 325 years after Christ, was not declared to be the doctrine of the church, is nevertheless the doctrine of the Bible, and that which, without changing a syllable over and over and over again is categorically stated in the very language of the Bible, as "God in one," "the Lord our God is our Lord," "to us there is but one God, the Father," etc., is false. Would not that be strange?

Now, if it were not entirely clear, both from logic and observation, that belief in this doctrine, including what has become associated with it, is attended with most deplorable consequences, such a discussion as we are holding this morning would be wholly unnecessary. If the faith we are criticising were held as a mere speculation—an opinion devoid of practical results—we should not trouble ourselves in regard to it. But it confuses and worries thousands who accept it. It cannot be otherwise. It presents to the mind three persons, with each of whom we are to deal in a certain way, and yet the idea that God is one, cannot be wholly banished from our conception of him. But just how, and to what extent, the human soul is to treat with, and individually depend upon, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, and how and to what extent we are to think of God as one (as even the Trinitarian tries occasionly to conceive of God as one being), is a matter which cannot be satisfactorily explained, and naturally and unavoidably it occasions confusion and anxiety. Add to this, the idea that in Eden, God's original plan was utterly thwarted, that He, like a routed general who had lost his men and guns, ammunition and baggage, was obliged to change his base, begin anew and plan an enlirely different campaign; that the chief means for the recovery of what he then lost, was His own advent into the world as a human child, and His own death on the cross, and that our chief business is to prepare to leave this moral wreck of a world and escape eternal damnation, and you have a system of doctrine that of itself fills the mind with the most painful apprehension that converts religion into a chronic frenzy, and as a last result, is well calculated to destroy all faith in God; as, if trying once, He so signally failed, that only by the appalling expedient to which this doctrine declares that He resorted, could He rescue anything from the terrible and universal ruin. Who can guarantee that another disaster, equally surprising and deplorable, will not overtake him? I, therefore, charge that this faith confuses the mind, converts religion into a panic, begets suspense and perturbation, in many cases destroying reason; and that finally, it is well calculated to undermine all faith in God. To a very considerable extent our great congregation is composed of persons who were brought up in the faith I am reviewing and which, with its numerous adjuncts had borne a burden too intolerable to be longer borne. Many of these friends have frankly acknowledged to me that they had lost all faith, all interest in religion and the church, and were rapidly drifting into open infidelity, from which they were saved only by our more rational views concerning God, Christ, life, religion, death and immortality. You who have heard Mr. Ingersoll, know that the fearful batteries of his well-aimed invective and satire are directed against the creed I am reviewing, and that for the intelligent and sane, he holds it to be fraught with mildew and death.

This will be apparent when we consider the inevitable consequences of cramping our natural powers by force of will, compelling them to assent to, and even to accept, articles of faith, scientific, political or religious, against which they intuitively protest. Clearly, it demoralizes the mind, it destroys its ability to work easily and accurately, to perform its high and legitimate function, if by mere will power its intuitive perceptions are ruthlessly overborne and its natural apprehensions are disregarded. It also seriously involves the moral nature. For example, a person could not solemnly swear that he would believe, and everywhere affirm that two and two are three, or five, without involving the integrity of his intellectual and moral powers. Forcing his mind into that unnatural attitude, he clearly sacrifices his fine personal quality and benumbs his delicate powers of apprehension. I do not suppose there is present, an intelligent person who on this point would disagree with me. Now let us apply the perfectly apparent principle to the case in hand.

No person, allowing his mind to work naturally, and according to its own intuitive perceptions and methods, its instinctive sense of truth and fitness ever pretended to believe, or could possibly believe that three persons, each of whom has all the attributes of being, are one being; that a father and his son are one and the same, or that the infinite and illimitable God, who at this moment is, and has always been, as truly—as truly in each of the 100,000,000 stars of the Milky Way, as in "this world speck of flying dust," was, 1800 years ago born in our midst a human child. We are perfectly competent to say this. Left to itself, to work naturally, not a single human mind ever reached such a conclusion. That is done only by will power, which invalidates the integrity of the mind and inevitably benumbs the conscience. If, with repeated association, a man were solemnly to declare to you that he believes that a fraction is as great as a whole number—that matter does not occupy space, that a child may be older than its father, that the Niagara River runs up the precipice, you would be affraid of him. You would intuitively perceive that a mind thus morbid and working in that unnatural manner, or by the will, forced into that attitude had lost both its integrity and its moral balance, and was, therefore, wholly untrustworthy and might be even dangerous. And now you see why, as thousands and thousands of intelligent and conscientious people sincerely believe, in the name Christianity and under the direction of the nominal Christian church, vast numbers take their first lessons in intellectual and moral disloyalty. They declare, and they are compelled to declare their implicit faith in that which, without practical contempt for the only faculties by which we distinguish between truth and falsehood, no person ever did or ever will believe. And this accounts for the fact that in many local communities the standard of morality, as well as of intelligence, is higher, actually higher outside than inside the church. In the very service of religion men are taught to disregard the voice of reason and conscience.

Did you see in the papers, some time since, the reply of a man who was asked if in his community there had not been a general revival of religion? "Oh yes," he said, "we have had a great revival of religion, and we now need a revival of veracity and integrity, of personal honor and common sense. We have saved a great many souls; our present need is souls that are worth saving."

But beneath all this rubbish, the accretion of the dark ages, relics of heathen superstition and philosophy, there is a glorious, an infinite reality. There is one God and father of all, who is above all and through all and in us all, and without Him the soul cannot live its grandest and best. As the infant needs the delicate, constant, life-giving attentions of its mother, so the soul needs the light and warmth, the strength and peace derivable only from clear, strong, rational, refreshing religious faith. And it is because the idea of one God, one infinite mind, one sovereign will, one invigorating presence, one Heavenly Father and everlasting friend is so much more rational, and therefore so much more conducive to a sweet, healthy and refreshing piety than the contradictory, bewildering and frenzied conception of God and man, life and religion, death and immortality included in the doctrine I have criticized, that I present it for your serious consideration.

And though, as we have seen, there is a vast difference between one and another conception of this great general subject, yet no mere theory in regard to it is sufficient or of great moment. We ought to feel, and we may feel that this one God is ours—ours most really and truly—ours as the mother belongs to her child, and that in the filial relation to him sweet, voluntary, persistently recognized, we find our joy, our strength, our life.

ADRIFT ON A RAFT.

STORY OF A SURVIVOR OF THE SHIP HARVEY MILLS.

Foundered Off Cape Flattery—Four Days of Horror—Only Three Men Left Out of a Crew of Twenty-Five.

THE TIMES has already noted the wreck of the ship Harvey Mills off Cape Flattery and the arrival of the survivors at San Pedro. In fact it "scooped" all its esteemed contemporaries, being the only paper which had the enterprise to send a representative to San Pedro to interview the survivors. The mate had gone at once to San Francisco on the Orizaba, leaving the two sailors penniless in a strange town. The San Pedro people made up a purse, however, got transportation, and sent the sailors up on the Eureka.

The Chronicle of Sunday contains a long interview with the mate, T. J. Cushman, from which the following is taken:

"We were towed to Port Townsend from Seattle on December 12th," said the mate, "and the next day proceeded to sea in tow of the tugboat Tyne. It was about daylight of the 14th when the line was thrown off, and, the wind being fresh from the southeast, we made sail and stood out. The Harvey Mills had a crew of 25, fore and aft, composed of the captain, J. L. Crawford; first mate, T. J. Chewshman—that's myself; second mate, James Benson; third mate, William Campbell; steward, cook, carpenter and eighteen seamen."

A TERRIBLE STORM.

"Do you know their names?"

"No, sir, I do not," replied the mate, "but I know that the two who were saved along with me are called Alexander or Aleck Cargell and Jake Brown."

"She was laden with coal, was she not?" the reporter inquired.

"Yes," was the reply; "she had near on to 3300 tons of coal on board. Her registered tonnage was 2017 tons, so that, while I do not mean to say that she was overloaded, you can see that she was carrying all she conveniently could. The coal had been well put on board, however, and I don't think it shifted a bit, because I noticed afterward that whenever there was a lull in the storm she righted and rode on an even keel. This storm came on about 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning, the 14th, and two hours after the fore-top-gallant sail went in two with a report like that of a cannon. We took in some of the canvas then, but the wind kept on increasing and we furled the upper topsails at 2 o'clock. All that afternoon the wind blew harder and harder, until it had risen to a shocking gale, the like of which I had never experienced. As the evening came on the seas began to run very heavy, and the ship strained and labored and plunged as though she would surely go to pieces. She stumbled along with her port taffrail mostly under water, the wind howling worse than ever and the waves hammering us like fury.

WORKING AT THE PUMPS.

"Still I thought the ship would weather through all right, but about this time I happened to go into my room and found it full of water. I bailed it out, wiped it dry and had turned to fix the port hole and grating, when, on looking around, I saw to my consternation that the room was once more full of water. Then I saw that the straining of the ship had done some fearful work, and after consulting with the captain we sounded the pumps and found 19 inches of water. At 8 o'clock that night we sounded again and found 23 inches. Then we decided to man the pumps, and started them with the ship tossing badly and now showing a steady list to port. Every few minutes the seas would plunge in on the deck, sweeping everything movable. The port quarter boat was taken flying out of the skids, and at every wave there would be a shriek as some man was carried away from the pumps. The decks were now continually under water, the cabin was stove in and filled, and as a last resource we rigged the bell-pumps and worked them from the forward house. We could make no effect on the body of water that had got into the ship and was making her roll like a log, and at midnight we decided that our only hope was to keep her off and put her before the wind. We tried this, but she would not answer to her helm, and after losing a jib and staysail we gave up the job."

TAKING TO THE BOAT.

"We passed that night the Lord knows how, and when Wednesday morning came—and it comes soon after 4 o'clock in those high latitudes—we found the ship on her beam ends. To ease her up, if possible, the captain had the main and mizzen masts cut away, but as our ill luck would have it, this only made matters worse. The mizzenmast in falling stove in the afterhouse, and that, as you shall hear, was the salvation of those who were saved. The mainmast stove in the long boat, pounded away at the ship's side, the water rushed like a millstream into the hold, and it was decided to abandon the wreck. The only boat left was the lifeboat, and as it was being lifted from the skids Captain Crawford told me that he could not swim. On this, I insisted that he should get into the boat and that I would trust to the ship. He demurred at this, but I forced him, and as we were thus arguing the ship gave a great lurch and washed the boat away. As it went the captain and five men jumped after it. There was a commotion in the wreck alongside, and up came the boat with all six clinging to it. They righted her, when another sea rolled them all over. As she swept by the mizzen gangway, I saw but three clinging to her. Then came another breaker, and as the boat flew away into the darkness, I caught a glimpse of the captain and one man clinging to the upturned keel.

ADRIFT ON THE OCEAN.

"As well as I could make out it was now about 5 o'clock in the morning, and, turning to the ship, I found that eleven of us were left, and for a few minutes we all clung to the starboard side of the after-house. Pretty soon I felt the ship tremble and stagger and so rushed to the starboard rail. There was another heavy rolling plunge—a movement that seemed to have all movements in it—and knowing that the end was coming, I jumped out and swam as far as possible to be out of the suction. When I rested and looked around the Harvey Mills was just going slowly down stern foremost. As soon as I saw that the foundering was complete I swam back to the spot and with three other men got on a piece of the after-house deck which had been loosened by the fall of the mizzenmast, as I have described it to you. We drifted here and there all that day and in the morning of Thursday saw another piece of the after-house deck floating to our right with five men on it. They tried to come up to us, but owing to the fact that a skylight formed part of our raft it caught the wind and we drifted faster than they did. All day long they kept working to get up to us, using pieces of scantling, and as evening came they managed to get alongside. I did not like their society at all, for as they came slowly up to us I saw that they were singing, dancing and having a regular fandango, and all apparently as crazy as March hares. They shouted that one of their number had been lost, and sure enough they were now only four instead of five as I had seen that morning. One of their propositions was that we should lash the two fragments of the deckhouse together, but I would have none of them. Then they wanted to come on to our poor raft, but we beat them back and so nightfall came on and we never saw them again."

SUFFERINGS OF THE WRECKED.

"Had the weather abated by this time?"

"Not in the least," answered the mate. "The wind continued to blow great guns and the sea was so high that our raft was nearly all of the way under water. It did not sink, however, for it had been so battered about that the tongue-and-grooved woodwork lay along the water like a sheet of india rubber. We had not a single thing to eat or a drop to drink, and yet I did not seem to suffer much. One reason why I did not feel any great degree of thirst, perhaps, was that while the three seamen were clothed with oilskins, I had only shirt, pantaloons and socks on. Consequently my body was constantly wet, while theirs were kept comparatively dry, so that I enjoyed the benefits of absorption. At the same time I did suffer acutely from cold, and my feet even now are so numb that I really do not know that I have any such extremities. So the 16th passed, and when the 17th came it found us very weak but hopeful. A rainstorm came on, and while it lasted we sat with our mouths open gaping like so many young birds. That day, too, a bark hove in sight, but though we hoisted three pairs of pantaloons on a stick, and shouted until we could scarcely whisper, she squared away and left us when only two miles distant."

RESCUED AT LAST.

"When Saturday broke we were pretty nigh helpless, but we brightened up as we sighted a barkentine and saw that she had noticed a signal. She ran for us, but the night came before she reached us. All night long she stood by us, showing her lights, but though we tried to make our whereabouts known, we could not do so. Then a thick fog came up, and when it closed in on us and shut out the friendly light, we asked to die. Soon after that one of the sailors started up from the corner where he had been muttering and mewing, and saying he was going out to buy some straw, walked overboard and was drowned. When Sunday morning dawned the sea seemed full of ships, but we could not move. The signal, however, fluttered away, and at 9 o'clock we saw a bark bearing down for us. Then we saw a boat lowered, and in another hour we were on board the Majestic, of San Francisco. The rescue came just in time, and thanks to Capt. Bergman and his wife, we were so well taken care of that when we were set ashore at San Pedro on the 6th we felt quite ourselves again."

"And I suppose," concluded the reporter, "that notwithstanding your experiences, you will ship again next week?"

"Well," replied the mate, with a cheerful smile, "I shall if I can find a berth."

"The complement of the Harvey Mills is a difficult matter to secure, many of the men having been engaged at Seattle; but the following list contains all the names save those of two ordinary seamen: Captain J. L. Crawford, First Mate T. G. Cushman, Second Mate James Benson, Third Mate Wm. Campbell, steward, cook, carpenter, seamen Charles Lindberg, Charles Rolnson, Alexander Cargell (saved), Edward Lynch, Frederick Peterson, John Anderson, Thomas Collins, Stephen Isaaeson, William Isaacson, John Hansen, Alexander Valgens, Jacob Brown (saved), Frederick Williams, Gustav Abramson, John Wilson, Peter Johnson.

CATARRH.

THE TERM CATARRH IS APplied to a peculiar disorder of the nostrils and adjacent parts, which prevails to an alarming extent and is productive of very serious consequences.

The most prominent and characteristic feature is a morbid discharge from the head, varying in its nature at different times.

In some there is an almost constant flow of clear, acrid fluid, but oftener an offensive, purulent or muco-purulent, greenish-yellow matter is secreted, which accumulates in the nostrils or drops into the throat, necessitating its frequent removal by blowing the nose or expectoration, and often by both processes. Sometimes patients feel as though their whole head was in a state of rottenness, so great is the amount of matter discharged and so fetid is its odor. The patient is greatly annoyed by the constant dropping into the throat of the morbid matter from the head, and as a consequence position naturally favors the flow downward, his rest is frequently disturbed from this cause. Many sufferers are obliged to lie with the head very much elevated in order to sleep with some degree of comfort.

In others a tough, viscid and offensive phlegm collects behind and above the soft palate, in the passage between the throat and head, adhering to the parts with gluish tenacity. Its lodgment embarrasses respiration and creates a sensation of irritation and uneasiness in the affected locality, which gives rise to a constant and almost irresistible desire to relieve the discomfort by drawing the mucus into the throat so as to eject it by the mouth. This practice, popularly known as "hawking," is characteristic of catarrh, and proves as embarrassing to the one affected as it is disagreeable to those around him.

Again, the offensive matter hardens and deposits itself on the membrane in the shape of dry, hard concretions, which are discharged by way of the nostrils or throat in lumps or fragments of a deep green tint. In some cases these incrustations accumulate to such an extent as to form a regular plug in the nose, which obstructs breathing and produces serious discomfort. So firmly do these incrustations adhere to the point of attachment that their removal usually requires the most violent efforts; not unfrequently they have to be torn from the membrane. Occasionally a solid cast of notable size is expelled, on which there are generally traces of blood, but in some cases the cast presents a tubular appearance, being of exact shape of the nasal cavity. This condition is indicative of ulceration, which, in time, may destroy the bony structure of the nose and produce a subsequent flattening of that organ.

Cases are occasionally met with in which a thick, viscid, slimy secretion coats the membrane of the nasal cavities and then putrefies, giving rise to a stench which is really overpowering, and sufficiently fetid to poison the atmosphere of a whole room; and there are others in which all the secretions of the membrane are suspended, causing an unpleasant feeling of dryness, heat and feverishness in the head and nose—a condition popularly known as "Dry Catarrh."

The disease speedily extends to the air cavities of the bones of the forehead and face, giving rise to a distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression over the forehead, especially in the region above and between the eyes, and to a feeling of fulness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain in the nostrils near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and behind the soft palate. Sometimes there is pain obstinately fixed in some particular part, as in the temple, on the top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbids, and, occasionally, pain manifests itself in the face of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The breath is always tainted and at times assumes an exceeding fetid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasioning violent and prolonged paroxysms of sneezing.

The voice is weak, indistinct and husky, or of a nasal character, displaying a sort of sniffing duality. Oftentimes there is a continuous hoarseness and discordance. There is also a sense of irritation in the throat, and frequent attempts to clear the parts of phlegm, producing the sound "nem," more or less forcibly. In some cases patients complain of an uncomfortable feeling of fulness, or a choky sensation in the throat, and in others of a distressing and almost constant dryness, for the temporary relief of which they have to swallow frequently. Others, again, speak of a constant bad or nauseous taste in the mouth or throat.

The stomach generally suffers more or less and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious and nearly always bad in the morning. The patient is languid, unable to perform mental or physical labor with the usual facility, is nervous, depressed in spirits, at times fearful, timid, agitated and inclined to drowsiness and sleep, the memory weakened and permanent impairment seriously threatened.

The mucous membrane soon becomes morbidly sensitive to unfavorable influences, and in spite of the utmost care becomes affected from the slightest causes, so that at last a breath of wind upon the lining of the nose or throat becomes productive of a cold, and gives rise to serious disturbances of the respiratory organs. Thus the patient is subject to frequent and repeated colds, each attack aggravating the disease by giving it a new impulse and involving a larger extent of surface than its predecessor. In this manner the difficulty spreads from organ to organ, invading the throat, larnyx, trachea and bronchial tubes, until, encroaching further and further, it reaches the finer ramifications of the bronchi, when but a slight impulse is required to send it to the lungs. Catarrh may, and often does, affect other organs in the body, especially those containing a mucous membrane, such as the stomach, bowels, kidneys, etc.

By the employment of proper inhalations in the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray) we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharynx and nasal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavities, where it is utterly impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every case can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedy at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business what ever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless the disease has advanced to the chest and that both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success. The very best references from those already cured.

IVANHOE

700 ACRES

DIVIDED INTO ONLY

1400 LOTS.

Price of Lots, $150 Each. First Payment, $20.

Succeeding Payments $10 Monthly, Without Interest.

The entire tract is beautifully situated, with a charming view, pure air and water and perfect drainage. The Ostrich Farm Dummy Railroad runs through the tract, with a five-cent fare guaranteed to and from the center of the city. This road will be completed to the tract July 1, 1887. Pure and abundant water piped through all the streets.

Size of lots, 50x150 feet up to 5 acres. The average size of lots, half an acre. The uniform price of these lots is placed at $150; first payment $20 cash, with succeeding payments of $10 per month, without interest. This is a splendid investment for a very small amount of money.

When $100 has been paid on each lot, the entire number of lots will be distributed among the purchasers, on the same plan as that on which the Childs tract was distributed.

This tract is situated upon the hills, which are rapidly becoming the most desirable residence portion of the city. The soil is a warm, sandy loam, free from frost, being in what is known as the warm belt. The elevation is such that the temperature is more even than in the city.

Free carriage to the tract every day from the office of the agents. Maps and circulars and all information can be had from

TWELVE PAGES.

PRICE OF THE ANNUALS.

The price of our Annual Trade Number of THE TIMES, containing twenty-six pages—more than a triple sheet—is 10 cents per single copy; 6 copies, 50 cents; 12 copies, $1; 50 copies, $3; 100 copies, $5. The price of the WEEKLY MIRROR, also issued January 1st, is the same. These papers are filled with valuable matter, good all the year through.

The postage on the daily or weekly trade copies is two cents.

Mr. Savage was permitted to take the oath in a modified form from which all mention of dueling was excluded.

A Rich Province.

Some months ago the Los Angeles Board of Trade passed resolutions calling attention to the desirability of securing railroad connection between the Los Angeles system and the Carson and Colorado River road. The subject was considerably discussed at the time, and it was subsequently announced that arrangements were making for the extension of the line southward from Owens Lake. If the owners of the Carson and Colorado River road do not see their way clear to building the extension, the people of Southern California ought to make it clear. It would be better to construct the line as a purely local project than to let it go by default. There is no doubt that it would open up a commercial territory equal to the best that we now enjoy. This trade, which once, in great measure, belonged to Los Angeles, was diverted when the railroad was built in from the north, and has never been regained. Nothing will secure it save an all-rail connection from Los Angeles.

The Inyo Independent, of January 1st, discussing this topic, says:

"There are individuals in Los Angeles amply able to build this short stretch of railroad, the want of which is the only bar that prevents Owens Valley from becoming the most valuable region for business that the city would be connected with. The coming summer will see a large increase of settlers in Owens Valley, whether the southern route be opened or not. People will come in from the north over the Carson and Colorado Railroad if an opening is not made from Los Angeles. Should the first rush of people into the valley come from Los Angeles their business relations would naturally be established there, and once established would remain. If connected with that city by rail, this great and fertile valley would become known in the East as part and parcel of the territory tributary to Los Angeles, and as such would add greatly to its fame and consequence.

"Already business interests are growing up that will speedily make the opening of this route an absolute necessity to Los Angeles. At Carson fruit boxes are made to order and shipped by the carload to the fruit-growers of Los Angeles county. These boxes must be hauled over the Virginia and Truckee road to Reno; thence over the Central Pacific to Sacramento, thence to Stockton, and so on to Los Angeles. Or they must be hauled to San Francisco and then sent by sea to Wilmington, and from there hauled to the city. Instead of this long, roundabout and expensive way of shipping fruit boxes, if the gap between Keeler and Mojave were closed they would go in almost a straight line from Carson to Los Angeles. The opening of this line would also give access to a good market for oranges that is now supplied from Sacramento. Not only all the trade of California east of the mountains, but the whole of Western Nevada would be controlled by this route, not in oranges or other fruits alone, but in all kinds of merchandise, and in nearly all financial transactions. No ambitious and rapidly growing city ever before had a better opportunity to make a most valuable extension of business relations with new territory, than is now within the grasp of Los Angeles by completing the short link of railroad that will give her control of Owens Valley."

The Inyo Register has the following, which is equally pertinent and forcible:

"Railroad men are busy planning and building quite a number of new railroads in different parts of the State, particularly in the three counties of San Bernardino, Los Angeles and San Diego. These new roads are all being built for feeders for the existing trunk or overland lines, each of which is striving to secure to itself all the business possible. Singular as it may appear, these railroad builders do not seem to give this great inland empire a thought in their plans; we hear not a word about any branch road from the south into this region. Now, it does seem to me that not a single one of those projected branch roads, anywhere, in either of the counties named, can possibly open up as much desirable country as would an equal length of rail extending from Mojave on a direct line to a connection with the Carson and Colorado at its southern terminus on Owens Lake, in this county. In general terms, such a connection gives Los Angeles a completed railroad line, on the shortest possible route, through Eastern California, through all Nevada on to Idaho—a vast empire of wonderful resources.

"But Inyo county alone surely offers enough within itself to justify the immediate construction of this connecting link; it does beyond question when we consider for a moment its capabilities. There is not less than 450 sections of surveyed lands in Owens Valley proper, including those bordering on Owens Lake, thence northward along the river to and including Round Valley, equivalent to 288,000 acres. Having some personal knowledge of the whole of this vast area, we feel quite safe in asserting that full 200,000 of these acres are capable of producing good crops of some kind; also that there is a sufficiency of water, easily available, for at least that number of acres. Much of this land is to be had for the mere taking.

"This great valley is capable of furnishing good homes for at least five times its present population. It is capable of feeding and sending to market at least 10,000 animals every year, or almost any day in the year taking hogs, sheep, cattle and horses together. All this and very much more is quite within the lines of the possible developments in the next few years of this Owens Valley alone.

"Were a person to start from Los Angeles to visit this valley, he could sail along on the cars 100 miles directly toward us. This would land him at Mojave, almost half way, as it is but 130 miles over almost a dead-level road thence to Owens Lake and the southern terminus of the C. and C. railroad. But there are no public conveyances or any others now running over this stretch, although but a few years ago a dozen big teams and a stage each way passed over it every day in the week—then it was Los Angeles's chief feeder. If our traveler does not give up his intended visit, as he pretty surely will, he may go on by rail and finally get here after 'swinging around the circle' of very nearly 1000 additional miles, and passing over four or five different railroads, all at a cost of time and money equal to a trip from New York. Until this little stretch of 130 miles is bridged over by rail, we need look for no material additions to our population from the south or any other direction. When it is so bridged over, and especially with a road of standard gauge suited for hauling live stock without transshipment, this eastern slope region will fill up with settlers just as the southern part of the State is doing. The day that link is supplied Los Angeles will become the center of trade for all this great interior, all this to a certainty. While it is a certainty that the sum total of the traffic such a road would create and largely divert directly to the benefit of Los Angeles would be immense from the agricultural resources alone of this slope, it is no less certain that the amount would be little less from its mining interests, for, be it known, this is a mining country all along the line from the Comstock down to Mojave, over 400 miles. Under this head, besides gold, silver and lead mining, heretofore the principal source of business, comes the Owens Lake soda and marble products, the former likely to be the greatest in the world from a single source of supply, while that of the latter will be limited only by the demand, whether that be for one ton or one million of tons. It will well pay Los Angeles to build this all important link herself alone if need be, and at once, too."

Provide for the Newcomers.

The exceedingly cold weather at the East, together with low fares, will soon send such a tidal wave of immigration in this direction as has never before been known. Ways and means should be promptly provided by which we can afford ample accommodation for this army of newcomers, if we would keep them with us. Other sections are reaching out energetically to attract them. With all the new homes in process of erection within the city, we need even greater activity in building to accommodate the strangers who, within the next few months, will seek homes in our midst. If we would keep the steady flow of immigration still tending within our borders, we must provide for it. There should be no apathy in this matter. Our public-spirited capitalists should see to it that this essential requisite is not neglected. Climate and sunshine are great enough as far as they go, but they do not annul the need for a comfortable home shelter for those who come here with their families to find homes. A large proportion of these will, in due time, provide homes for themselves. They come here with capital to invest, but they do not like the idea of hotel or boarding-house life for their wives and little ones through all the period of preparatory home-building. They are anxious to rent meanwhile the pretty cottage or the more pretentious dwelling, and such dwellings should be multiplied for their use. There can be no better investment for capital than this. It will pay a generous percentage, and it will never lie idle. THE TIMES has repeatedly called attention to this need of Los Angeles, and the matter should be agitated until this want is fully supplied.

Not So Very Torrid.

There is an Ananias abroad who states that it is so torridly hot in Los Angeles during these winter months that any degree of comfort is impossible. THE TIMES has just received a letter inquiring if this be so, to which it responds that the statement is a falsehood clipped out of whole cloth, cut over the bias and a yard wide. It is one of the kind that increases as the square of the distance increases. Torrid days form no part of the climate of Southern California. It is very rarely that a day is experienced in which one cannot be perfectly comfortable in the shade.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—The name of Aimée has been a potent attraction to draw crowded houses wherever it was announced that she would sing, and that it still has a power was evidenced by the fact that the Opera House was well filled last night. The audience did not expect much in the way of singing, for it is known that Aimée can no longer sing as she once could, and having given up opera bouffe she is now playing in so-called comedies. Last night she was suffering from a severe cold, which was an additional drawback. The piece chosen for her first appearance here is entitled Ma'mzelle, and is a three-act farce of the variety type. Its tenor may be guessed when it is stated that the slight thread of interest it contains may be taken as an illustration of "Ko-Ko's" famous sarcasm, "Married men never flirt."

In the leading character Aimée shows the possession of inimitable tact and resource. She is an artist to the tips of her fingers, and in the quiet finish of her rendition she is hardly to be rivaled in the line of character she assumes.

The support was, in the main, quite fair. The character taken by Newton Chisnell and Thos. H. Burns, were especially good. Miss Clara Baker and Jennie Williams are each gifted with a very attractive stage appearance, and if they had the opportunity would likely show the possession of superior talent.

The piece was favorably received and the songs were duly encored. The same bill will be repeated tonight.

BUCKLEY'S PRICE.

The Democratic Boss Will Let Hearst be Senator,

Provided the Stipulated Shekels are Shelled Out in Advance.

I. W. Hellman Said to Have Abandoned the Senatorial Fight.

Stephen M. White also Practically Out of the Contest—Indications that Hearst will be Chosen in Spite of a Possible Democratic Revolt.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 10.—[Special.] The Democrats have been connubiating all day on the Senatorial question, and have settled down to the following condition: Hellman is out of the race because he refuses to buy the office. Eight Democrats have agreed to go into the caucus, but will not be bound by its action if it nominates Hearst. Buckley is reported as kicking for $25,000 down, and Hearst refuses, because its payment would deprive him of the seat. I am fully convinced that the scruples of Buckley about doing business on credit will be overcome and that Hearst will be nominated by the caucus. Should eight or any number of Democrats bolt him their places will be filled by Republicans. There are several Republicans who are willing to sell themselves and then try to justify on the ground of electing a bad and weak Democrat that the Republican party may profit by it. The railroad gang are here working for Hearst. I do not believe that any Democrat can resist the party lash and refuse to abide by the caucus nominee. If it was a fair fight, White would certainly be nominated, but he is too clean to adopt the necessary methods to succeed as affairs are now going. Frank Newlands will reach here tomorrow, but his coming will be too late. Rose and White are not of the eight who propose bolting. Buckley is certainly master of the situation, and if he falls down on Hearst it will be for financial reasons. Nothing but a refusal to meet Buckley's demands can defeat Hearst.

Gov. Bartlett Takes Possession of His Office—Senatorial Gossip.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] At 9 o'clock this morning Gov. Bartlett took permanent possession of his office. Nearly all the Senators returned from San Francisco this morning. As the Assembly does not meet until tomorrow, few members of the Lower House are in the city. Speaker Jordan states he will announce his committees tomorrow.

A petition is being circulated for a joint senatorial caucus to be held tomorrow evening. It is reported that the 65 Democrats of both Houses of the Legislature have agreed to go into the caucus for Senator.

Gov. Bartlett's first official act this morning was to appoint H. E. McKinney a notary public at Santa Cruz and Q. M. Scott to a similar office at Galt, Sacramento county.

Stephen M. White, of Los Angeles, is announced tonight as a candidate for United States Senator.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

A Packing-house at Portland, Or., Burned—Other Blazes.

PORTLAND (Or.), Jan. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] Joseph Burkhardt's beef packing-house, at the corner of Third and L streets, East Portland, was partly destroyed by fire last night. About $10,000 worth of meat in the building was badly damaged. Loss, $8000; insurance, $5000. After the fire was over the burned bodies of Thomas Laughlin, clerk of the Fire Board, and one of the editors of the Times, were found.

LAWRENCE (Kan.), Jan. 10.—Shortly before midnight last night fire was discovered in the large dry goods store of B. Kahnweller & Bros. The fire communicated with the adjoining building, and five other stores were burned. Loss, $900,000; insurance, $50,000.

HARTFORD (Conn.), Jan. 10.—A fire yesterday destroyed the dry goods store of G. O. Sawyer & Co. Loss, $140,000.

LABOR TROUBLES.

A General Tie-up of Street Railways in Boston.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] A general tie-up on the Consolidated Horse Railroad occurred this morning, pursuant to the action of a meeting of employés, which adjourned at 3:30 o'clock this morning. The roads comprise the Middlesex and Highland lines, connecting Malden, Everett, Charlestown and Somerville with Boston and Boston Highland District. The exact grievances of the men are not known, but the trouble is believed to have been caused by the failure of President Powers to keep his part of an agreement recently made with the men.

JOHN ROACH.

The Long Illness of the Great Shipbuilder Ends in Death.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] John Roach, the great shipbuilder, died at 8 o'clock this morning. The cancerous growth had eaten its way into the side of his neck, below the angle of the jaw, involving the large arteries, which became liable to rupture at any moment. Roach was in great pain all day yesterday, and to give him relief large doses of morphine were injected, and he was unconscious most of the time. Deceased leaves a widow, three sons and one daughter, all grown.

Hunting for a Missing Girl.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Detectives are searching for Tillie Smith, of Woodland, who came to this city a week ago and was to have been married here Saturday evening to S. C. Henry, also of Woodland. The young lady has not been seen since Friday afternoon. No clew has been obtained. It is stated, however, that a certain grocery man, whose name and place of business are unknown, had threatened she should never marry Henry. The missing girl is 22 years of age.

Inherited a Big Fortune.

SUPERIOR CITY (Wis.), Jan. 10.—Alexander Crawford, a well-known Duluth iron manufacturer, has received notice that by the death of a cousin named James Thompson in Ballarat, Australia, a fortune of over £1,000,000 has been left to him and his four brothers, giving them each nearly $900,000. Crawford had not seen his cousin for 40 years.

A Boom for Conkling.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The World comes out this morning and calls upon Republicans to unite with Democrats and elect Roscoe Conkling United States Senator.

SAN FRANCISCO.

Another Dynamite Explosion on the Geary-street Road.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] As dummy No. 9, of the Geary-street line, was coming east from Scott street, yesterday afternoon, an explosion took place on the track shattering the wood work of the dummy. None of the passengers were hurt. It is believed the explosive was a dynamite cartridge.

SUICIDE, NOT MURDER.

The doctors who examined the body of Nellie Hatch, which was found in Golden Gate Park, Saturday last, have come to the conclusion that it was a case of long-premeditated suicide. The bottle containing the poison of which she had taken was found to have been purchased in the East, where deceased had been visiting.

THE WINE-GROWERS.

This afternoon between 30 and 40 wine-growers of this State assembled in the parlors of the Occidental Hotel for the purpose of discussing the bill now before Congress known as the Green Spurious Wine Bill. After a general discussion the following resolution was offered:

"Resolved, that the grape-growers and wine-makers of California are heartily in favor of Congressional legislation taxing all spurious and counterfeit wines, but we demand that the legal definition of pure wine shall be limited to the product of the grape. All substitutes for pure wines or beverages compounded from other fruits or ingredients should be required to be sold under their true names, as gooseberry wine, elderberry wine, glucose wine or the like."

The resolution was referred to a committee to be reported on at the next meeting. The convention then adjourned to meet again at the call of the chair.

NO ONE TO BLAME.

The Local Inspectors of steam vessels submitted their findings today in the case of the burning of the steam whaler Mary and Helen, at the oil works last month. The testimony gives no clue as to the cause of the fire and as none of the officers of the steamer had been put in charge of her, no blame is attached to them.

DID NOT TURN OFF THE GAS.

The janitor of Montgomery block, at the corner of Montgomery and Washington streets, this morning discovered Col. Henry P. Irving, a well-known lawyer of this city, lying insensible on his bed in room No. 82. The gas was turned on and it was evident that Col. Irving was at the point of death from asphyxaition. A doctor was called in, but death resulted in 15 minutes. Deceased was a native of the State of Virginia and aged 83 years. He was undressed when found and was lying across the bed. He left the gas turned on accidentally.

Cold Weather, but no Rain.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—The Signal Service synopsis for the past 24 hours says: The barometer is lowest to the west of Vancouver Island, where a storm of considerable energy is now central, and is highest in Western Oregon. Rain has fallen in Washington Territory and in Northwestern Oregon. The amounts are as follows: Olympia, .06; Astoria, .20; Portland, .03. Elsewhere fair weather prevailed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Dispatches received from different parts of the State today report frost in many localities last night, from which, however, no damage resulted.

The New Jersey Senatorship.

TRENTON (N. J.), Jan. 10.—The State Legislature will meet tomorrow and the hotels are filled with politicians tonight. Among the leaders the only topic receiving attention is the United States Senatorship for which Gov. Abbett and William J. Sewell are contestants. The Legislature stands Republicans 38, Democrats 39, Labor 2, and contested seats 2; total 81. The contested seats are held by Democrats, but Republicans claim they are entitled to them, and unless the concession is made the latter threaten to defer organization.

Why Wetmore Resigned.

LIVERMORE, Jan. 10.—Charles A. Wetmore states that since his office became a salaried one many impractical men of the State have been continually finding fault with him, and in every way endeavored to misrepresent his motives. This interfered with his work as chief executive officer of the State Viticultural Commission, and his object in resigning was that he might be free from such attacks. He says he will still devote considerable of his time to the viticultural interests of California.

Chinese Expelled.

VICTORIA (B. C.), Jan. 10.—A committee appointed at a public meeting at Vancouver, B. C., waited on a number of Chinese recently arrived there from this city and requested them to leave, which they did. Their return fare to Victoria was paid by subscriptions received from citizens. It is reported that instructions have been received to take proceeding against Mayor McLean, of Vancouver, and other citizens implicated in the expulsion.

Seeking Stolen Treasure.

NOGALES (Ariz.), Jan. 10.—W. Miller, of the firm of Miller & Riordan, owners of the San Augustin mine, near Ures, Mexico, is in this city trying to get some trace of four bars of gold and silver bullion stolen from them while in transit to the mint at Hermosillo. The bullion is valued at $10,000. The men whohad the bullion in charge have been arrested. They claim to have been asleep while the wagon was broken into and the bullion abstracted.

Want Some Southern Boom.

SAN JOSE, Jan. 10.—The Board of Trade met tonight and endorsed a scheme to build a hotel to cost from $300,000 to $500,000. The shares are $10 each and 1500 shares were at once subscribed. A committee was appointed to raise subscriptions to advertise the resources of the county, and to establish a branch at Los Angeles.

Smallpox at Hermosillo.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—The Chronicle's Nogales (Ariz.) special says: "Gov. Torres, of Sonora, Mexico, is confined to his room with smallpox, and fears are entertained regarding his recovery. The epidemic has been very general and fatal in Hermosillo, and much uneasiness prevails there."

The Oregon Legislature.

SALEM (Or.), Jan. 10.—The Legislature convened today. J. C. Carson, of Multnomah, was elected President of the Senate, and J. F. Gregg, of Marion, Speaker of the House. Gov. Pennoyer will probably be inaugurated tomorrow.

Death of Alice Oates.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Alice Oates, the well-known comic opera singer, died this evening at the residence of her husband. She had wasted away greatly under a painful complication of diseases, and death came as a welcome relief.

High License in Tulare County.

VISALIA, Jan. 10.—The Board of Supervisors today placed the retail liquor license at $100 per month. Quite an interest has been manifested in this matter. A petition to the board asked that the license be placed at $500 per month.

Failed.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Vergho, Ruhling & Co., dealers in druggist's sundries and toys, assigned today. Liabilities, $100,000; assets, not stated.

Ex-Marshal Bazaine Again Appears in European Politics.

An Attempt to Evict Tenants in Ireland Results in the Usual Riot—Dillon Suing for Damages for his Recent Arrest—Notes from Abroad.

By Telegraph to The Times.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—[By Cable.] The composition of the new Cabinet was announced this evening. Lord Salisbury is Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; Rt. Hon. R. W. Smith, First Lord of the Treasury; Rt. Hon. G. F. Goshen, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Rt. Hon. Edward Stanhope, Secretary of State for War and Sir Henry Holland, Secretary of State for the Colonies. There is no change in the other Cabinet officers. The Earl of Iddesleigh repulsed Lord Salisbury's offer of the privy seal.

RUMORS OF COMING WAR.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—La France declares that it has authentic information that Germany, Italy and Spain have formed an alliance against France, and that ex-Marshal Bazaine is among the prime movers. The story is discredited here.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Telegraph lays stress upon the many rumors of war now current and affirms that Russia is trying to force France and Germany to a conflict in order to enable her to carry out her own Eastern plans.

AN ANTI-EVICTION RIOT.

DUBLIN, Jan. 10.—As an outcome of the prohibition of the Nationalist meeting which was announced to be held today on the occasion of the threatened evictions at Roslea, there was a collision between a crowd of about 4000 persons, who were waiting to receive Mr. Dillon, and a force of police and drafted village peasants, the latter of whom were armed with sticks. The police used their batons freely, and succeeded in dispersing the crowd. Dillon and a Catholic clergyman who was present, while strongly protesting against the action of the police, persuaded the people to return to their homes. The evictions were postponed.

DILLON DEMANDS DAMAGES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 10.—John Dillon has commenced an action against Inspectors O'Brien and Davis to recover £2000 damages for malicious prosecution and assault, and £1000 damages for the seizure and retention of moneys and documents in connection with the arrest of himself and others at Loughrea for receiving tenants' rents.

GLADSTONE DEFENDS CHURCHILL.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Gladstone writes saying that Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation was justifiable, and adds: "I myself favor more economy in the army and navy appropriations."

RESIGNED.

The New York World puts the Hon. S. S. Cox on its list of eligible Democratic candidates for the Presidency, any one of whom would, it thinks, show greater strength in 1888 than Mr. Cleveland can possibly develop.

Miss Edith Talmage, daughter of the great Brooklyn divine, is to be married soon to Mr. Allan E. Donnan, of Richmond, Va. Mr. Donnan is described as a typical Virginia gentleman—handsome, high-spirited, popular.

The following is a description of Rene Goblet, the new French Premier, which will be read with interest: "He is a beautifully built Tom Thumb, with a big head, staring and prominent blue eyes, a long and snubby-ended nose and an air of splendid self-confidence; he is as aggressive as a game-cock, fond of badgering a clerical as a dog is of worrying a cat; no red Radical, but a reduced copy, in Republican surroundings, of the skeptical, liberal and frontier bourgeois of Louis Phillipe's time. His wife is a tall, stately and handsome woman. He seems, on entering a drawing-room behind her, like a torpedo boat in the wake of a large steamer. Yet she is very much in love with and very proud of her little lord."

CURRENT COMMENT.

The Democrats in Dakota must be pretty well discouraged by the stupid way in which a Democratic House of Representatives continues to deny them the right of Statehood. The stupidity of Democracy will furnish a good subject for essays in country schools next winter.

Col. Otis, of The LOS ANGELES (Cal.) TIMES, marks Gen. Gresham as the man for 1888. He is an able lawyer, an upright judge, was a gallant soldier and showed admirable executive ability as a member of Arthur's Cabinet. He has all the qualities that make the strong and available Presidential candidate.—[Inter Ocean.

One man is rarely wiser than all men. Nor can any man ride two horses long at one time. The President has been trying to attain the impossible. If he could only be induced to attempt the practicable!—[Louisville Courier-Journal.

A good deal is said in the papers about the two wings of the Democratic party, but in Indiana it seems to have as many wings as the average woman sports upon her hat—so many, indeed, as to sadly impede its flight.—[Indianapolis Journal.

The Democracy is the same everywhere—in Ohio, Indiana, and every Northern and Southern State where the party is strong enough to defeat or menace good government—revolutionary, rebellious and utterly unprincipled.—[Cleveland Leader.

Logan's death seems almost to assure the Republican Presidential nomination, if a Western man is to get it, to Judge Gresham, provided the latter is willing to be a candidate. From all appearances Judge Gresham, though a Western man, would be about the strongest man in both the East and West whom the Republicans could nominate for the Presidency.—[Galveston News.

The Inter-State Commerce Bill in the Senate.

Stanford Argues Against the Measure from a Railway Standpoint.

The Bill Appropriating $150,000 for Los Angeles Reported Favorably.

How Idaho May be Protected from Colonization by Mormons—Lack of Money to Keep "Old Probs" from Sending His Favors to Los Angeles.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The Senate again took up the consideration of the Inter-State Commerce Bill, and was addressed by Mr. Beck in favor of the adoption of the conference report.

Mr. Cullom addressed the Senate in favor of the conference report, confining his remarks principally to the fourth section, as to the long and short haul.

In reply to a question by Mr. Aldrich, Mr. Harris of Tennessee undertook to explain and defend the fourth section of the bill. There was, he said, four distinct and independent lines of railroad between San Francisco and New York. These became one line by contract and agreement between them. If they charged $100 a car from San Francisco to New York that was the maximum rate which they could charge from Ogden or Omaha to New York.

Mr. Aldrich. They could charge $99 from Ogden, or Omaha or Buffalo.

Mr. Harris. There is no reason to be found in this bill why they may not charge (from any intermediate point) up to the maximum of through charge, except that the charge must be reasonable.

Mr. Stanford argued against the bill. He said that it tended not only to prevent competition by railroads, but it exhibited a tendency to foster water way, to the prejudice of railroad interests. If the object were to enhance water lines at the expense of railroads he did not know how a bill could be framed to secure such an object better than this bill. Railway business secures an object better than this bill. Railway business was legitimate. There could be no justification for depriving the owners of railroads of the control of the property. The bill seemed to him clearly in violation of the rights of property and of the rights of labor to receive compensation for services performed. It was also a discouragement to that class of investment. In regard to the long-and-short-haul section he argued that the water and other companies sometimes made it absolutely necessary to charge more for intermediate business than for through business. All overland lines of railroad find their rates very largely controlled and influenced by routes by way of the Isthmus of Panama and of Cape Horn. Meeting that competition, and being willing to accept a small profit where large cannot be had, they carry along the line between the two extreme points the same character of freight at less rates than it is carried from East to West or from West to East to intermediate places. Thus, because of competition, freight going from New York to San Francisco may pass over various lines of railroad, making up a through line for perhaps half their regular rates, say from New York to Buffalo, from Buffalo to Chicago, from Chicago to Omaha, from Omaha to Salt Lake, and so on to the destination on the Pacific coast. No profit is so small as to be despised. Business is done at that rate rather than not do it all. Take a more marked illustration. The Southern Pacific road strikes Atlantic waters at a much less distance than any of its more northern competitors. It has a line of easy grades, comparatively, and it competes not only with its northern rivals, but more particularly with the Cape Horn and Isthmus of Panama routes because of its shorter line and easy gradients. In this competition it often takes freight between the two oceans as low as $70, while it takes freight half way for say $30 a ton, a most reasonable rate for the limited local business of that country. Now, if it only makes a dollar net on freight from San Francisco to New Orleans at $10, it is led to make that dollar where it can get no more, but a ton of freight going to El Paso, something over half the distance, will pay $30 a ton. Now, if freight at $10 to New Orleans pays $1 profit, freight going a less distance to El Paso would pay as much profit as 21 tons going through to New Orleans, and the rates charged to El Paso are but fair, as shown by the gross earnings and gross expenses of the road, leaving but a very narrow net profit. The shorter distance is not charged any more because of tde less rate for the longer distance. Indeed, the longer distance helps the railroad company to maintain itself, while without that help perhaps they could not do the shorter business at all. Is this Congress prepared to say that small earnings shall be despised, that they shall not be secured when greater cannot be had? Are they prepared to deny to individual shippers and communities the benefit of their more favorable locations, whether made so because of geography and topography of the country or by artificial means?

THE LOS ANGELES APPROPRIATION.

Senator Mahone, from the Committee on Public Buildings, today reported the bill to appropriate $150,000 for a public building at Los Angeles, Cal.

NEW BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. Halley of Idaho has introduced a bill disfranchising and denying the right to hold public lands in the Territory to persons who practice bigamy, polygamy or unholy cohabitation.

In the House today under the call of States the following bills were introduced and referred:

By Mr. Oates of Alabama—Making 10 years' residence of aliens a requisite to naturalization.

By Mr. Markham of California—For the protection of forest lands of the United States in California.

By Mr. Merriman of New York—For the purchase of John Ericson's Destroyer and ten enlarged steel vessels of the same type for defending harbors of the United States.

By Mr. Gifford of Arizona—Granting a right of way to the United States Railroad Company from a point on the Canadian boundary to a point on the Mexican boundary.

OLD PROBS AND LOS ANGELES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—A telegram was published here today from Washington stating that Gen. Hazen has cut off the Los Angeles Signal Service Bureau from the receipt of telegraphic weather reports from Washington, on the ground that he has no money to keep up the service. Senator Williams and Representative Markham called on Hazen to protest against this. Gen. Hazen gave no definite reponse, but urged that if the appropriations for Signal Service for the next fiscal year could be increased the special service to Los Angeles would be restored. This will not in any way interfere with the weather reports now being telegraphed to Los Angeles from the Signal service in this city and by the Associated Press.

SAID TO BE INSANE.

Arrest of a Woman Who Once Shot at "Lucky" Baldwin.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] Some time ago "Lucky" Baldwin, the well-known horse racer, while in San Francisco, was shot at by a woman who claimed to be his wife. Though the bullet missed Baldwin he was badly scared. At no time since has he been free from fear that a second bullet, better aimed, would be fired at him by the scorned woman. Baldwin will undoubtedly feel easier when he learns that the woman who endeavored to put a stop to his racing career was last night arrested and locked up at the Armory on suspicion that she is not of sound mind. The woman gave her name as Alice Baldwin and her age as 26 years. She stated that since the affair in California she has had a hard time, having spent much of her time working on and editing an Iowa weekly. Some time ago she caused the arrest of a servant in the house where she had boarded, claiming the domestic had robbed her of a quantity of clothing. During the trial Miss Baldwin acted in such a strange manner that when coupled with other queer doings of hers, strong doubts were entertained of her sanity. This culminated in her arrest Saturday night.

THE WHEAT CROP.

Official Figures of This Season's Yield in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The Produce Exchange finished today taking stock of wheat on hand January 1st in the State and aboard vessels in the harbor. The official figures will not be published till tomorrow, but were obtained tonight through private sources as follows: Stock on hand 400,000 tons; required for consumption, seed, carry-over and shipments to Pacific Ocean points, 150,000 tons; balance available for shipment to Europe, 250,000 tons, equal to 8,000,000 bushels. These figures corroborate the estimate lately made. During the first six months of last year California sent to Europe 402,000 tons of wheat, being 60 per cent. more than the actual quantity present in the State for export to Europe. The present season so far has been very dry. As this year is an "off" year, due to the smaller amount of summer fallowing done in the even years, the next season's surplus is likely to be small with only a small carry-over to add to it.

Killed by an Explosion.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Last night a quantity of dynamite used for blasting, stored in a frame shanty on a lot at Twenty-ninth and Stiles streets, exploded, instantly killing Patrick Powers, watchman, whose body was badly mutilated.

Generous Gift.

LINCOLN, Jan. 10.—John Fitzgerald, president of the Irish National League of America, has forwarded to the fund now being raised in Washington for Mrs. Logan, the sum of $1000 as his personal contribution.

Afraid of the Air.

"Undertones," of the San Francisco Chronicle, whispers the following alarming tale at the expense of Pasadena:

You may have heard that the southern country is booming. They've got faro banks and saloons, and crooks, and cable cars, and real-estate agents, and subscription lists, and Marcus Meyer, and other evidences of civilization. And I'm told it isn't San Francisco capital that is doing it, either. In fact, it is undeniable that the new settlers despise us to some extent, and are already beginning to dream of making the Golden Gate the extreme entrance to Los Angeles. Those are Eastern people with money. They've come out to settle, and to develop things and have a good time. A young couple who arrived lately went to a real-estate agent the other day to inquire concerning an investment. The lady was apparently as deeply interested as the gentleman.

"I have an elegant piece of property at Pasadena," said he. "Pasadena is the modern Garden of Eden."

"Its very pretty, and I'd like to live there; but there are so many people there for their health, you know."

"Consumptives, you mean. Yes; but there are sick people everywhere."

"Yes, but consumption requires a great deal of pure air. I am told, and I'm afraid the consumptives will use up all the good air, and we'll get sick."

An Alleged Shooting.

The San Diego Union says:

"The mysterious 'shooting scrape' in Morse's addition has opened itself to the gaze of the public. John C. Bell, the auctioneer, was arrested and placed under bonds for an alleged attempt to shoot John Schooley. The story of the complainant, who formerly resided in Los Angeles, is that Bell, by false representations, and 'alluring enticements' (or words to that effect) succeeded, some time ago, in procuring the desertion of the complainant by his wife. The latter, however, subsequently found, as she herself says, that the stories were 'lies and various devices,' and she sought and was generously accorded the forgiveness of her husband. They lived happily here, it is said, until a few days ago Bell appeared at the house and asked for some of the keepsakes and gifts with which he had presented Schooley. She implored him to leave before her husband returned. This, she says, he did after abusing her, secreting himself, however, in a clump of bushes, and, it is alleged, he shot at Schooley as he was returning from town, from his covert, riding rapidly toward town immediately afterward. Mr. Bell, however, flatly denies the whole statement, saying that he went to the house to procure some things belonging to him, and that nothing whatever of the kind occurred."

Mr. Bell writes to THE TIMES that the above story is made out of whole cloth.

Court Notes.

In Judge Cheney's court pleas of not guilty were entered before Judge Cheney by Miguel Pryor, James Ryan and Charles H. White.

Informations were filed charging Juan A. Mesas with assault to murder, George Chase with grand larceny, C. B. Parcell with grand larceny, Pat Griffin with robbery, Marcello Chapo with assault to murder, John Lovett with grand larceny, T. H. Owens with fraudulent sale of property, Marguerita Granillo with murder and Ben Lopez with assault with deadly weapon.

Justice Austin held Peter Reagan to answer for grand larceny with bail set at $500. The prisoner was committed in default of bail.

Justice Taney yesterday imposed several fines of $5 upon disturbers of the peace. The trial of Pedro Garcia for battery was set for the 14th inst.

Prospective Institutions.

A large tract of land in the southwestern suburbs of the city has been donated to the Baptists for the founding of a sectarian college. Plans have been drawn for a comfortable and substantial building, and the year 1887 will doubtless see this completed and the college in full operation.

Steps are also being taken for the founding here of a Presbyterian college.

Violating the Fire Ordinance.

The new police force have been very active in making arrests of persons for violating the fire ordinance which forbids the erection of wooden buildings within certain limits. They yesterday arrested O. W. Burr, B. Reeves, W. W. Stowell, Ah Sam, Ah Wo, Ah Gum and Ah Chow, on complaint of Walter S. Moore.

IN A HUBBUB.

Democrats Make a Scene in the Indiana Legislature,

And Try to Exclude the New Lieutenant-Governor from Office.

The Vote Declared in Spite of Tumult and Filibustering.

The Bourbon Contingent Then Rush to Resolutions—Lieut.-Gov. Robertson Bound to Stick—Chances for Complications in Electing a Senator.

By Telegraph to The Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The hallways and corridors of the Capitol were thronged by an immense crowd of people, anxious to witness the possible developments in the political struggle now in progress. All interest was centered in the House, where the galleries were densely packed. Directly after prayer the Doorkeeper stepped to the front of the Speaker's chair and announced the presence of the Senate, consisting of 19 Republican members of that body.

Mr. Killison (Dem.) arose and called, "Mr. Speaker," but was not recognized.

Speaker Sayre immediately announced that the business of the convention was to canvass the vote for Lieutenant-Governor. Other Democratic members also claimed the Speaker's attention, but all were refused recognition. The reading of the returns consumed half an hour, and at its close, while the Clerk was making his computations, Mr. Jewett (Dem.) addressed the Speaker, but was told that nothing would be in order until the canvass was completed. Robertson was then declared elected by a majority of 3,323 votes. He was sworn in by a Justice of the Superior Court. Robertson at once took the gavel and proceeded to read his address.

The Democrats attempted to be heard, and Jewitt (Dem.) exclaimed, "Mr. Speaker, we do not recognize the legality of this joint convention" (pointing to the Republican Senators), "when there is no representation of the Senate, except the fag end of that body. We protest against this usurpation of power, this disorganizationand overturning of precedent and law."

At the conclusion of Robertson's address he declared the joint convention adjourned, for reassemble in the same hall on Wednesday, the 19th, to vote for a United States Senator. Speaker Sayre then took possession of the gavel and on motion of Gardner the House adjourned.

When the house reassembled Mr. Jewett (Dem.) offered a resolution reciting the fact of the action for Lieutenant-Governor, canvassing the vote, etc., admitting all the points except as to whether there was a vacancy in the office of Lieutenant-Governor, and inviting Mr. Robertson to seek a solution through the courts. The debate on the resolution occupied a large part of the afternoon and it was finally rejected, the Republican speakers maintaining that the General Assembly was the only tribunal competent to settle the matter.

The only additional feature of interest in the afternoon proceedings was the filing of notices of contest in the cases of Engelhartt against Mackay, Downing against Beasky and Dickerson against Meagher. They were referred to the Committee on Elections. The first of the contests is that of a Democrat against a Republican. The others are republicans against Democrats. There have been but few developments tonight, both sides carefully keeping their own counsel, and it is difficult to ascertain what is anticipated for tomorrow. The Senate will assemble at 10 o'clock and it is understood tonight, though it cannot be stated as an assured fact, that Mr. Robertson will be refused admittance to the chamber. Another rumor is that no opposition will appear on the floor of the Senate, but that any attempt on his part to take his seat as presiding officer of the body will be resisted. It is said that Mr. Robertson does not anticipate resorting to force, that he considers his legal status as Lieutenant-Governor fully established by today's proceedings, and will quietly await ahe solution of the problem.

A Horse-thief Killed.

SAN GORGONIA, Jan. 10.—On Thursday of last week one Tio, a Mexican, driving one of M. Aguirre's teams, disappeared, taking one of the horses. The other horse returned home, and search was at once instituted for the Mexican. He was found yesterday, 12 miles from here, in a dying condition. He had fallen off an embankment about 25 feet high. He will die.

CHARLESTON (S. C.), Jan. 10.—There was a slight earthquake tremor here about 8 o'clock tonight. It was felt at Summerville very distinctly. No harm was done.

Gentlemen from Arizona.

Two gentlemen from Arizona named Jo. McDonald and Max Beyes, who claimed to be attachés of Gen. Miles's headquarters in the capacity of clerks, imbibed a large quantity of California inspiration yesterday and the effect upon their systems of such a radical change from their ordinary doses of tarantula juice was so marked that it attracted the attention of Officer Little, who escorted them to the calaboose, where they were incarcerated, with charges of "drunk and disorderly" against their names. The gentlemen from Arizona were extremely indignant at receiving such treatment for conduct which, in the Territory they came from, would have caused no particular comment.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by the J. M. Griffith Company. The object is to do a general carrying trade in lumber and to conduct a wholesale and retail lumber business. The principal office will be in this city. The directors are J. M. Griffith, H. G. Stevenson, F. T. Griffith and P. H. Griffith, all of Los Angeles, and A. C. Bowers, of Santa Ana. Capital stock, $200,000; all subscribed.

BUSINESS TOPICS.

We respectfully desire to announce to the public that, finding our present quarters inadequate to our increasing business, we have purchased the entire office and good will of the firm of Wood & Wilson, architects, rooms 12 and 13, Wilson block, and said office will hereafter be used as a branch of our office, 44 South Spring street. Mr. Wilson will continue in our employment in charge of the branch office. Strange & Gottschalk.

Geo. W. Van Vorst,

Wishes to announce that he has purchased the grocery business of C. F. Potter, corner of Fourth and Spring streets, where he will be pleased to see his friends and patrons, and solicits the patronage of the public, always having on hand the best Point Reyes butter and very best family groceries.

GENERAL NOTES.

PASADENA, Jan. 10.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The correspondent of the Tribune made a slight error in his route of the street railway for which a franchise was given by the city council to N. G. Yocum. The corrected line is as follows: Beginning at the west line of Fair Oaks avenue and center of Colorado street in Pasadena, running west on Colorado street to Vernon avenue; north on Vernon avenue to Kensington place; westerly on Kensington place to Orange Grove avenue; south on Orange Grove avenue to Arroyo drive.

J. H. Simey, of the Oxford and Durham Universities, England, has taken a number of boys and organized a private school here. This gentleman comes with the best of references.

The members of the Y. M. C. A. purpose giving a public social in Williams's Hall tomorrow night.

Our Sons of Veterans are decked out in new uniforms. They arrived Saturday night and are a very good fit.

Rev. Cornelius continued his series of sermons Sunday, both morning and evening. They have proved to be very interesting and are drawing crowded houses.

The telegram that F. A. Bartey, ex-printer, real estate agent, etc., had suicided in Los Angeles seems to be simply a canard, originated by that enterprising individual himself. He claims relationship to the Danbury News man.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

[This is the TIMES-MIRROR'S Public Forum. Those who would stand thereon must first give the Editor their real names and be responsible for their opinions and statements. Cultivate brevity, clearness of style and timeliness; write plainly and on live topics, and use one side of the sheet only.]

A "SMART" CORRESPONDENT.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] One of your morning contemporaries in its Sunday issue published an article purporting to give a description of a trip to Australia via Honolulu and New Zealand, with remarks on the people and cities of those countries. Judging from the tenor of his letter he is a retired ship's doctor. So maybe that worthy gentleman is not aware that such a position is of as much consequence as a "Jimmy-ducks." Anyway, his first attempt in newspaper writing would show him to be about as truthful as is this latter buffet of a ship's crew. Before he again undertakes the task of placing his Gulliverian information before the public, it is to be hoped he will have sense enough to study grammar, spelling, geography and last, but most important, learn to be a gentleman. Let that correspondent remember that he is not the only person who has visited those countries, nor is he the first to write about them. More truthful historians and abler pens have accomplished that in which he has failed.

If there is any truth in having purchased the Samoan woman's dress (which it is to be hoped for the credit of himself and friends is untrue) then the lady passengers and his companions showed a thousand times more sense by withdrawing from his company than he ever did in making such a disgusting bargain.

When the public require information, which is always to be relied upon in every particular, it can be obtained by referring to the consular reports issued by the government at Washington. Personal prejudices breed but injury, which should not be aired through the medium of the press.

THE BOOMERANG.

"LOCAL PATRIOTISM."

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] I notice a long communication in the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette from Los Angeles, in which the writer lauds Pasadena to the skies and takes occasion to throw mud at Los Angeles. The press of this city has pursued a fair and liberal policy toward Pasadena, and that place owes its prosperity in a great degree to the press of Los Angeles. How narrow-minded and contemptible, then, in any one, because he happens to own a little real estate in Pasadena, to puff that place and decry Los Angeles, where he may not own property, but is a candidate for patronage from which he is drawing his living. Verily, this is narrow.

Medical.

CATARRH

CONSUMPTION,

ASTHMA and BRONCHITIS,

Treated specially and successfully by

W. N. DAVIS, M.D.,

45½ N. SPRING STREET,

Los Angeles, : : : : California.

NASAL CATARRH.

Treated upon a new principle, founded upon the fact that the disease is parasitic in its origin. The parasites can be demonstrated by the microscope, and will present the appearance shown below:

(PARASITES MAGNIFIED 480 TIMES.)

One difficulty in the treatment of this disease has been the inability to apply the remedies to the whole seat of inflammation; another is the failure to use the right remedies.

Our treatment consists in using medicines in the form of ointments, which are warmed and sprayed through the head and throat, reaching every part of the head that a spray can reach. The remedy remains in the head for some time, passes readily into vapor, and reaches cells filled with mucus impossible to be reached by medicine in liquid or powdered form.

The treatment is pleasant, and even children will take it readily after the first time, knowing the relief it will give them at once.

Constitutional remedies are employed for the blood, etc. Patients can treat themselves at home when necessary.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.

THE BENEFIT DERIVED FROM INHALATION.

In the Circle of Sciences we read this sentence: "The general effect of oxygen in nature is that of a life giving principle." Ever since the discovery of oxygen by Priestly, has this idea been uppermost in the mind medical, for since respiration is the process of administering oxygen to the tissues of the body through the agency of the blood (and in the lungs, purifying the life-blood), the thought instinctively pops into the mind that if, in cases of disease or imperfect oxygenation, we could help the lungs to more than their usual amount of oxygen, we would be wielding a weapon of vast remedial effectiveness.

Practical experience shows this theory to be correct, and never have we seen a case of asthma, bronchitis, consumption or general debility that the inhalations, properly administered, failed to relieve, more or less. 'Tis true that consumption in the third stage can only be relieved, except in rare instances, but our belief, founded upon experience, is that every case can be cured in the first stage, and the large majority in the second stage, climatic influences being favorable.

The home treatment can be sent per express to any address.

Los Angeles, Dec. 9, 1886.—Dr. W. N. Davis—Dear Sir: I wish to testify as to what your catarrh treatment has done for me. I was troubled with catarrh for five or six years or more, and felt as if death would be a relief. My sense of smell was entirely gone, and my hearing and taste were very much affected. Your treatment relieved at once, and in a few weeks entirely cured me, and restored my lost senses to their natural condition.

PRISCILLA DUDLEY,
R. Renshaw's office, No. 20, Downey block.

Los Angeles, Aug. 6, 1886.—Dr. W. N. Davis: This is to certify that I have been troubled with the catarrh for four years. My breath was offensive and I used different kinds of medicine, and it failed to cure me. I went to Dr. W. N. Davis and he treated me with the Medical Inhalation Treatment, and I was cured in 45 days and am now in perfect health. All those that are troubled with the catarrh had better go and consult Dr. Davis.

JOSEPH BAKER,
No. 217 First st.

Los Angeles, June 13, 1886.—Dr. W. N. Davis, Dear Sir: I was troubled with a bad form of catarrh of the nose and throat for eight years, and I am thankful to say that your treatment has entirely cured me in a few weeks (eight weeks). My stomach was somewhat affected, causing indigestion, which was relieved at once. I have gained 10 pounds since I began treatment, and feel better than since I was a child.

MRS. ELLA WILKINSON,
Figueroa st., near Ward.

This is to certify that I am a regularly-qualified physician, but not practicing, and have always believed catarrh of the chronic nasal variety to be an incurable affliction, but hearing of Dr. W. N. Davis's "New Treatment" and his success, I applied to him for medicine, and determined to try it in the case of one of my friends, and did so with the most satisfactory results, as improvement was immediate, and one prescription effected a cure. The case was of years standing and a bad type. I can recommend Dr. Davis to those similarly affected.

S. HALEY, M.D.,
Ponet Block.

Los Angeles, August 1, 1885.

JAN. 2, 1886.—S. Haley testifies that the case he treated five months ago is still a cure.

Los Angeles, July 4, 1885.—Dr. W. N. Davis: I have been troubled with catarrh of the dry variety for about five years, since three years before I came to California, and in one month I feel that I have been entirely cured by your remedies. Yours truly, PETER NIES,
P. O. Box 825.

Art Studio, 211 South Bunker Hill ave., Los Angeles, Cal.—Dr. W. N. Davis, Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that your remedies have cured that terribly obstinate catarrh of the back part of the nostrils and throat from which I suffered so much. It does not trouble me at all now, and I have only taken your treatment about two months and a half.

Yours gratefully, M. S. FISH.
May 25, 1886.

Los Angeles, Dec. 10, 1886.—Dr. W. N. Davis: I was troubled with moist catarrh of the nose and throat for about two and a half years, there always being a disagreeable feeling above the soft palate, and a disposition to clear the throat. Your treatment entirely cured me in one month.

MRS. ANNIE TOWNSEND, 108 Olive st.

Los Angeles, Oct. 2, 1886.—This is to certify that I was troubled with asthma and bronchitis for one and a half years, and never was entirely free from it at any time till two months ago, I put myself under the care of Dr. W. N. Davis, and his inhalations gave me relief at once, so that I could attend to my business as well as ever. I now believe that I am entirely cured.

H. J. DEYO, Ventura st. and Vernon ave.

Los Angeles, Jan. 27, 1886.—This is to certify that I have been troubled for four years with bronchitis, and in six weeks I have been almost entirely cured by Dr. W. N. Davis, and have had no suffocative attacks since I commenced treatment. I can recommend Dr. Davis to any who are troubled with the lungs.

MRS. M. S. STEVENS, Ninth st., near Pearl.

Los Angeles, Feb. 3, 1886.—Dr. Davis: If it were not for you I am satisfied that I would now be dead with lung disease, which had troubled me for two years, as at the time I began treatment last summer I was so low that I was unable to continue my trip East, after starting, and was obliged to return from Mojave. I wish to testify that I was entirely cured in three months, and found your charges very reasonable.

Lots in all parts of the city at reasonable prices.

I desire to call particular attention to the fine building lots that I have for sale on the hill; on the installment plan.

Parties desiring fine residence property will do well to examine the lots that I have for sale in the De Celis tract, only one narrow block from Main-st. car line; covered with orange trees in full bearing. Good soil, good streets, and surrounded by fine residences. This property is near the center of the city, with an electric railroad on one side and a horsecar line on the other.

WILL EXCHANGE

Several fine pieces of property in different parts of the State for city property.

Houses rented, rents collected and all business connected with real estate promptly attended to.

I will say to my Eastern friends and all others who contemplate settling here or making investments in property, that I have a large line of improved and unimproved property on my books for sale or exchange. It will certainly be to your interest to call and examine my list before purchasing, as I take great pleasure in giving information and showing property to intending purchasers.

Parties having large or small sums of money to loan on good security will do well to give me a call. Out of the many loans recommended and made by me I challenge any mortgagee to say that a suit has been commenced on a single installment of interest delinquent this date and unpaid.

Popular Resorts

LONG BEACH HOTEL.

PARTIES WHO HAVE VISITED ALL THE FASHIONABLE BEACH resorts in the world are unanimous in saying that the bathing and beach at this place are equal, if not superior, to any.

The hotel is now open for the winter season, and is considered one of the most desirable in Southern California for comfort and pleasure. The favored location of the house is such that the sun shines into the rooms on the ocean side all day long, thus making a combination of sunshine and pure air from the Pacific that is not often found.

The beach drive for ten miles in front of the breakers is one of the greatest attractions in the vicinity of Los Angeles. Statistics prove that during the winter months the climate is warmer and more uniform than farther back from the coast. Trains for Long Beach connect at Long Beach Junction with all trains to and from San Pedro.

Fare, Round-trip Tickets, $1.

COWLEY & BAKER, Proprietors.

The Sierra Madre Villa Hotel.

OPEN ALL THE YEAR.

Acknowledged by all to be the most charming resort in Southern California.

And commanding the grandest view of the San Gabriel valley and Pacific ocean. Is located on the south side of the Sierra Madre mountains, in the midst of an orange grove. Sixteen hundred feet above the sea and fourteen miles from Los Angeles. The Los Angeles and San Gabriel Valley Railroad passes within 1½ miles of the Villa. 140 acres of oranges, lemons, limes, grapes, walnuts, peaches, apples and figs; a beautiful lawn, flowers, etc. FOR COMFORT, GOOD LIVING, PURE AIR AND SPARKLING MOUNTAIN WATER—which are so essential to health—it has no rival. Five trains daily each way. Telephone communication with Los Angeles. Trains leave Los Angeles at Downey ave. bridge, 9:21 a.m., 10:36 a.m., 2:36 p.m., 4:1 p.m., 5:36 p.m. Sunday 10:15 a.m., 5:20p.m., for Lamanda Park, where our stage meets all trains

BUSINESS.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS ANGELES, Monday, Jan. 10.

A new market for the California Wheat crop of this season seems likely to be developed in South America in consequence of the long-standing quarrels between Chili and Peru. The following dispatch tells the story of the situation in the latter country:

LIMA, Jan. 10.—In consequence of the closing of Peruvian ports against vessels from Chili, the Wheat supply from that country has ceased, and in order to meet the demand for Wheat the municipality have been authorized to take steps to have the necessary supply brought from California.

The Bradstreet Mercantile Agency reports 16 failures in the Pacific coast States and Territories for the week ending January 7th, as compared with 17 for the previous week and 13 for the corresponding week of 1886. The failures of the past week are divided among the trades as follows: Two saloons, 2 varieties, 2 grocers, 1 hats and caps, 1 lodgings, 1 general store, 1 hotel, 1 dry goods, 1 butcher, 1 cigars and tobacco, 1 clothing, 1 druggists' sundries, and 1 fancy goods.

Good prices are being obtained in Chicago for the first of this season's Orange crop, as will be seen by the following:

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—The Call's Chicago special says: "California Oranges, some of the first of this season, were noticed on the market here yesterday, and are sold at $3.50 per half box. Prices remain about steady for all California varieties."

Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Government bonds were dull, but firm.

Money on call easy at 4@5, closing at 4.

Prime mercantile paper scarce and in demand at 6@7.

Sterling exchange strong at 481¼ for 60 days bills, 4.85 for demand.

A disposition to await the action of Congress upon the Inter-State CommerceBill still keeps operators out of the stock market, which remains dull and almost devoid of feature. The market opened somewhat irregular, but generally strong. Lake Shore was conspicuous stock, with an advance of ¾ per cent. There was moderate business in the first few minutes, in which Jersey Central and West Point were conspicuous, prices were strong, and especially for Jersey Central and Peoria, Decatur and Evansville. The activity soon died away, but advances in price continued until noon. Dullness was then intensified and prices sagged off slowly until the close, which was dull and heavy, generally small fractions above the opening. Sales, 238,570 shares.

THE UNIVERSITY.

DEDICATION OF THE NEW CHAPEL BY BISHOP FOWLER.

A Large Attendance—Eloquent Address by the Bishop—Financial Statement—Some Very Liberal Contributions.

The dedication of the new building of the University of Southern California attracted an immense crowd to that building yesterday afternoon. The chapel was filled to overflowing and listeners crowded the stairway.

The services opened with an organ voluntary by Louisa Wright. Next came the reading of Scripture by Rev. W. A. Knighten, a hymn, prayer by Rev. R. W. C. Farnsworth, Scripture reading by Rev. R. S. Cantine, and another hymn, after which Bishop C. H. Fowler commenced his dedicatory address, which was based upon the passage in the seventh chapter of the Acts of the Apostles: "Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in works and deeds."

The Bishop commenced by showing that universities were a necessary outgrowth of advanced civilization. Tracing the growth of civilization and institutions of learning among the various races of the world, with an eloquent tribute to men like Plato, Aristotle and Diogenes, who had an open ear to the voice of the Supreme Being, the speaker showed the disastrous effect which clerical tyranny had upon a country where the founts of learning were under the sole supervision of Rome. Such had until recently been the case in France and Italy. Italy now had 21 universities, which had all sprung up since Victor Emanuel had given freedom to that classic land. Reviewing the number of institutions of learning in various European countries, he came to the United States, where, said he, the pioneers can hardly camp upon the plains without a university rising in the morning. In this country there are over 500 universities and colleges.

History showed that the university could do a great deal for the average boy. His chances were thirty times as great in the struggle of life as those of the self-made man. Universities lessened the danger of despotism by diffusing liberal ideas; they created a healthy atmosphere, turning young people from lower amusements; they increase the length of human life by teaching hygiene; they assisted in settling up the country by teaching how to reclaim deserts—in short, universities are friends of the Republic and pay in dollars and cents and are, therefore, deserving of liberal patronage from all good citizens.

Dr. Sinsabaugh, secretary of the Board of Directors then read a financial statement showing that subscriptions for the building fund were begun in the college term of 1883-4. The corner-stone of the new building was laid on the 20th of September, 1884. During the college year of '84-5 about $10,000 was collected and expended, and the same amount was collected and expended during the following year. Of that amount one man—Mr. G. W. Morgan—gave lands which were sold and aggregated a little over $6000. Since July 1, 1886, that is since the beginning of the college year of '86-7, $15,000 has been collected and expended, and of that amount Hon. E. F. Spence gave lands which have since netted $9000. At the opening of the last term on the 22d of September, the work on the building had so far progressed that the chapel was formally occupied for morning prayers, and on the first morning Bishop Warren delivered an address.

Thus, up to date, about $35,000 had been collected and expended. When all work is completed and all bills paid there will be about $2000 more to be added to this amount. There is to meet this amount about $3500 yet in cash and good subscriptions, not counting 66 unsold lots in the town of Wilmington, valued at $6600. These lots were the subscription of Gov. John G. Downey, in addition to a $500 cash subscription. A number of gentlemen gave $1000 each, others $500 and many gave less amounts. A large book, made especially for the purpose, will have recorded within it the names of all who have given to this fund.

Last July the Board ordered a new subscription to be started for furnishing the new building and adding to the apparatus and library. The amount was fixed at $10,000. The subscription to that fund has now reached $2200, a part of which has already been collected and expended. This subscription will be continued until the full amount is reached. The Board, in arranging for the work of the present college year, decided to expend about $2000 more than the largest amount that could be realized from the tuition, and in order that they may not have to draw against the interest fund which will be due in October, 1887, but be able to reserve that fund for the expenses of next year, they now desire to ask this congregation for that amount.

Bishop Fowler then made an eloquent appeal and a collection was taken up, which realized more than the amount asked for.

A hymn followed, then a dedicatory prayer by Rev. P. F. Bresee, the doxology and a benediction by Rev. Mr. Johnson.

EMMA ABBOTT.

She Leaves Los Angeles Much in Love with It.

After the most successful engagement ever played in Los Angeles—an engagement which realized over $11,000—Emma Abbott and her company went north on Sunday. The entire company left the Angel City with regret, the ladies standing on the rear platform of their departing car and waving their handkerchiefs in fond adieu. Several of them remarked that if any of the Angeleño youth had been kind enough to propose marriage they would have stayed right here and let the company go to—San Francisco. Miss Abbott said to a representative of THE TIMES a few minutes before her departure:

"I came here this time already in love with Los Angeles, thanks to my former visit. Every day of my stay has added to the fascination. Widely as I have traveled, I know no other spot so lovely. I should be callous indeed did I not also appreciate the great compliment your people have paid me. It is a most substantial sort of flattery. I don't know just why they should have been so kind to me, but it is none the less appreciated. This weather is simply heavenly. In spite of the manner in which I have taxed my throat, the close of the engagement finds it in perfect condition. I never felt better in my life. By the way, I want to explain about the omission of the church scene in Faust. You see a special 'illusion' is required for the entrance of 'Mephistopheles' there, and we do not carry the scenery for it. It is one of my favorite scenes, and I did not wish to omit it. I wanted 'Mephistopheles' to come in from the wings, sooner than leave it out, but the manager overruled me, saying that it would look ridiculous. I was sorry for the omission, but am sure the people will not think I designedly disappointed them. I want to thank THE TIMES for its intelligent criticisms. It is a comfort to run across, now and then, a critic who understands his business, as yours evidently does. I hope to come back some time to Los Angeles, but cannot yet tell when it will be possible."

Miss Abbott and her company opened in San Francisco last night at the Baldwin.
